—BALAGUER RESIGNS—

Junta Takes Over In D.R.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Joaquin Balaguer resigned Tuesday night after wild rioting in the heart of Santo Domingo and a new civil-military junta was sworn in to take over the government.

Announcement of the government change immediately drew the fire of the National Civic Union, the largest opposition political faction. A spokesman for the party called it a military coup d'etat.

There were unconfirmed reports that 3 anti-Trujillo members of Balaguer's State Council—formed last month with members of the National Civic Union after weeks of unrest and rioting—had been arrested. The 3 reportedly were Rafael Bonnelly, who had been scheduled to succeed Balaguer as head of the government; Dr. Nicolas Pichardo and Eduardo Read Barreras.

Sent Home

Another member of the state council, Roman Catholic Msgr. Eliseo Perez Sanchez, was reported to have asked to be taken prisoner but was sent home. This report also could not be verified.

Two civilian members of the new junta—Luis AMiama Tio and Antonion Imbert—are holdovers from the short-lived state council, and two—Armando Oscar Pacheco and Huberto Bogaert—held high government posts under the dictatorship of the late Rafael Trujillo.

The military members of the junta are Maj. Wilfredo Medina Natal, Lt. Col. Neil Rafael Seija, and Rear Adm. Enrique Valdez Vidaurre.

Spokesmen for the National Civic Union said all their members who had taken government posts after their December truce with Balaguer would resign. But associates of one of these, foreign minister Antonio Bonilla Atiles, said he had no plans to quit.

Followed Shooting

The new junta was installed at the National Palace a few hours after Air Force tank troops fired into a defiant crowd of hundreds in the heart of the capital, touching off the most violent rioting in the city in months.

The government estimated 4 were killed and 19 wounded in the shooting, but the civic union said at least 8 persons were killed and many wounded.

The rioters' main targets appeared to be Balaguer, a holdover from the Trujillo regime who had promised to resign but wouldn't say when, and the chief of the armed forces, Air Force Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria.

Censorship

(Censorship was put into effect on outgoing news dispatches, and this dispatch made no mention of the fate of Gen. Rodriguez Echavarria. It was assumed, however, that he had retained his post so far.)

(In Washington, a spokesman for the State Department said the situation in the Dominican Republic is "a fluid one." He said there would be no State Department comment on the government shift there until Wednesday).

A crowd estimated at 500 persons had massed at Independence Park, across from National Civic Union headquarters, as Civic Union loudspeakers blared anti-government broadcasts.

Police arrived and tried to stop the loudspeakers. As the crowd's protests grew more violent, about 6 air force tanks arrived and took up position in front of the building.

Suddenly Fired

Soldiers on one of the tanks suddenly opened fire and the screaming crowd ran for cover.

After the shooting thousands of Dominicans milled in the rainy downtown streets. They overturned trash cans, hurled stones at windows and set fire to a theater.

Gas Pipeline Blast Claims 8 In Canada

Edson, Alta. (AP) — Eight workmen were killed Tuesday in an explosion of a natural gas pipeline in a remote area 35 miles northeast of Edson.

Four others were injured. Two were released after hospital treatment.

Blood supplies were sent to the Edson Hospital from Edmonton, 120 miles east of here.

Gas service was not affected in any communities.

The explosion occurred in 3-below zero weather.

ARMY SHIFT READY

. . . JFK Sends Congress Streamlining Plan

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy sent Congress Tuesday a 6-point plan for drastic streamlining of the Army's high command so it will be better geared to meet swift-changing military demands.

"The primary purpose of this reorganization is to develop an army with the best possible command structure, management, training, doctrine, weapons, equipment and morale," Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said.

This first major Army reorganization in 9 years affects the top headquarters level but leaves undisturbed the Army's combat structure and the headquarters of its field commands.

New Commands

It involves creation of two new top-level commands under which will be concentrated (1) research, (2) development, (3) procurement and (4) other functions now performed by such individual technical services as the ordnance, quartermaster and signal corps.

The "tech" services will continue to exist, but the posts of chief of ordinance, chief chemical officer and quartermaster general will be abolished. Some other technical service chiefs will be downgraded. At present, the chief chemical officer is Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubbs, the chief of ordnance is Lt. Gen. John A. Hinrichs and the quartermaster general is Maj. Gen. Webster Anderson.

The general staff will be relieved of many command-like and detailed operating chores "to permit greater emphasis on planning. programming, policy making and general supervision" of the Army's over-all effort.

Will Take Over

The Continental Army Command, headquartered at Ft. Monroe, Va., will take over from the technical services the job of training their personnel. CONARC already is responsible for training combat troops.

"I anticipate that approximately 18 months will be required to carry out the reorganization," Stahr said in a statement.

The Army reorganization will become effective within 30 days if neither the House nor Senate armed services committees vetoes it. Should either committee reject the plan, it would then go to the full Congress which would have 40 days in which to act.

The plan would take effect automatically if congress does not reject it.

JFK Ordered

Preparation of the reorganization plan was ordered last February, just after the Kennedy administration took office.

Under its terms, the Army will create a material development and logistic command which will conduct: research and development, procurement and production, supply inventory management, storage and distribution, maintenance and disposal work now handled by the individual technical services.

This new command also will test new weapons and equipment — a mission now assigned to those services and to the Continental Army Command.

Combat Command

A second new organization to be set up will be the Army combat developments command. This unit will work on doctrine. war games, field experimentation and studies of relative cost and effectiveness of various weapons systems.

Power Men Say 'Choose'

Knight Out Of Contest With Nixon

...Health Reason

Los Angeles (AP)— Ailing former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, once a robust political warhorse who loved a rousing fight, withdrew Tuesday from California's 1962 GOP gubernatorial primary and a battle with former Vice President Richard Nixon.

Citing reasons of health, Knight stepped out of what was shaping up as a rugged primary fight with Nixon, an old intraparty foe.

The two exchanged bitter charges last fall. Knight said Nixon, through a middleman, offered him any state job if Knight would quit the race. Nixon denied it.

Hepatitis

Knight, 65, an ebullient, energetic governor from 1952 to 1958, was stricken last November with infectious hepatitis.

After several weeks' hospitalization, he went home but since has been confined to his bed.

Examination

Knight's current campaign manager, Bob Voigt, said the decision to withdraw was made Tuesday afternoon after Knight's physician gave him a 45-minute examination. The physician, Carl E. Lund, said:

"I have advised him that because of this illness, from which he has not yet recovered, he cannot conduct a strenuous statewide political campaign in 1962."

Knight himself said in a statement:

"It is with the greatest regret that I now follow the advice of my doctor. I shall not file as a candidate for governor in March. This reluctance is inspired by the sincere devotion and friendship of many Californians who have so unselfishly supported me for governor of California.

"I will never forget them."

Nixon's Wishes

Nixon issued the following statement:

"I know I express the sentiments of all Californians, regardless of party, in extending my sympathy to Governor Knight and my best wishes for his recovery from the illness which has forced him to withdraw from the gubernatorial race. I know this is a difficult blow to a man who has been such a vigorous and tireless campaigner, and I hope that he will have a speedy and complete recovery so that he can regain his participation in public affairs."

State Faces Competition, Monopoly

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Public Power Committee members Tuesday generally agreed that the state will have to choose between legislatively-imposed regional electric monopolies or continuing competition for retail customers.

The matter received serious attention at NPPC's regular monthly meeting as a result of last week's ruling by District Judge Robert Flory in the highly-publicized electric service dispute at Fremont.

In effect, the decision allowed a customer to choose his electric supplier despite voluntary service area agreements among power agencies.

A Monkey Wrench

The action threatened to throw a monkey-wrench into NPPC's apparently successful initial efforts to seek retail area agreements.

(Omaha Public Power District—which gained the customer, but lost the case—will seek a new trial. It and the Fremont municipal utility had agreed that the customer should be served by the latter agency.)

"If it is in the public interest to eliminate duplication and competition in service areas, then there ought to be something more definite set out in legislation," Ray Schacht of Columbus pointed out.

Schacht is general manager of Consumers Public Power District.

"We should place this problem squarely in the hands of the Legislative Council power study committee immediately," Frank Phelps of Grand Island declared.

Phelps, utilities commissioner at Grand Island, represents the League of Nebraska Municipalities.

Flies In Face

The court ruling appears to fly in the face of the mandate handed NPPC by the 1961 Legislature. It ordered power spokesmen to voluntarily eliminate duplication and competition, or face legislative action.

If such voluntary agreements can be overthrown by customers, they would have little force.

"We must show the Legislature examples that this can be done by voluntary agreement," Jack Boyd of Holdrege suggested. "Then, all we need is to have the Legislature make the agreements legal."

Boyd is general manager of Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District.

NPPC Chairman C. F. Moulton of Omaha said that "it is in the public interest for electric utilities to be a little bit monopolistic by nature."

In other action, NPPC named a subcommittee to prepare the report to be submitted to the Legislature late this year.

It included A. L. Cantry of West Point, rurals; Glen Beachler of Fairbury, municipalities; R. D. Wilson of Lincoln, CPPD; E. E. Schwalm of Omaha, OPPD, and Max Kiburz of Columbus, Loup River Public Power District.

Finigan Eyes Federal Crop Insurance Job

Washington (AP) — Ed Finigan of Lincoln is expected to be appointed state director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. for Nebraska, an Agriculture Department spokesman said Tuesday.

Finigan is a brother of Pearle F. Finigan, Nebraska agriculture director.

The spokesman said Finigan's appointment is contingent upon approval by the Civil Service Commission, which has jurisdiction.

Robert D. Harrison, former Republican House member from Nebraska, was appointed to the post April 3, 1960, but the spokesman here said he is expected to announce his retirement sometime next month.

The position pays about $10,000 a year. Headquarters are in Lincoln.

Congolese Slay 18 Missionaries

. . . GIZENGISTS SUSPECTED

Leopoldville, the Congo (AP)— The massacre of 18 Roman Catholic missionaries by Congolese soldiers who first forced them to submit to indignities was reported by church authorities Tuesday. Another priest was reported missing.

The killings were reported in an eastern area of the Congo where unruly soldiers in the past have been reported under the influence of Leftist Antoine Gizenga, whose rebellion against the central government now is crumbling.

In fact, as the reports circulated, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula announced that Gizenga had been stripped of his post as deputy premier in the central government for leading the insurrection. A virtual prisoner of government troops in his old stronghold of Stanleyville, Gizenga may be replaced by a friend of his arch foe, President Mose Tshombe of secessionist Katanga, Adoula said.

Indirect Report

The report of the slaughter of the missionaries came indirectly from a seminary student who said he escaped. He reported Belgian and Dutch priests of the congregation of the Holy Ghost Fathers were among the victims.

The report said troops of the central government rounded up the priests at Kongolo in north Katanga on Dec. 31, beat them up and forced them to perform indecent acts, and then shot them at a military camp the next day.

The troops in the area previously were reported to have come from Stanleyville, Gizenga's headquarters in Oriental Province. But later they were said to be cooperating with the central government under the direction of Gen. Victor Lundula.

Mutinied Before

Gizengist troops, assembled at Kindu for an invasion of Katanga, mutinied last November and were blamed for the butchering of 13 U.N. Italian airmen.

The seminary student at Kongolo told his story to a priest from Kasongo. The priest arrived at Kakuvu, in Kivu Province to the north, last Sunday and reported to Msgr. Richard Cleire, his bishop.

Neither the name of the student nor the priest has been disclosed. The priest was said to have investigated the facts before going to Bakuvu and to have confirmed them from a Congolese source.

Taking Revenge

The soldiers apparently were taking revenge because the missionaries rejoined publicly when invading troops were driven out of the town by Katangan soldiers on Dec. 28, the account said.

Man Is Held In Shooting Near Wahoo

Wahoo (AP)—County Attorney George W. Haessler said Tuesday night that Ferdinand A. Holtz, 56, was being held in the fatal shooting Tuesday afternoon of Mrs. Nina Radcliff, 39, at the Radcliff farm home a mile south and a mile and a half west of Wahoo.

Holtz lived with Mrs. Radcliff and her husband, Howard, 58.

Haessler quoted Holtz as telling this story:

About 3 p.m. Holtz took a double barreled 12 gauge shotgun from a corner of the Radcliff living room and then approached Mrs. Radcliff seated in a chair, and told her:

"I'm going hunting."

Mrs. Radcliff replied:

"No you are not. This is my birthday and we will have some drinks."

"Mrs. Radcliff then grabbed the shotgun and 'jerked it and it went off."

Haessler said that Holtz then drove to Wahoo and turned himself over to Policeman Richard Manners with the remark "I have shot a woman."

The county attorney said he will call a coroner's jury Thursday morning to consider the case.

House Committee Ponders Pinballs

. . . Fast Gambling Machines

Washington (AP) — A lanky lawyer explained to a Congressional committee Tuesday how you tell an ordinary amusement-type pinball machine from one that looks like it but is "the fastest gambling machine ever devised and pushed onto the public."

To illustrate his rapid fire lecture, lawyer Rufus King brought two pinball machines into the House Commerce Committee hearing room and showed how they worked.

The flashing and chugging, ding-dinging and banging, whirring and clicking brought smiles to the Congressmen's faces.

King represented the American Bar Association, which supports a bill to outlaw the pinball type gambling machine and others like it. He also represents the Gottlieb Co. of Chicago, one of the biggest makers of the amusement type pinball machines, and a backer of the legislation.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told the committee it is time to tighten up a 1951 federal law that banned slot machines in interstate commerce, but does not cover the latest refinement in pinball machines.

Kennedy said the gambling type machine brings in "enormous profits, estimated in the hundreds of millions annually," and has attracted syndicated crime.

He said the proposed new law, which would ban interstate shipment of these machines and require producers to register with the Justice Department, would not affect the amusement type of pinball game.

King demonstrated both machines. The amusement type made by the Gottlieb Co. has comparatively simple electronic insides. Its playing board, however, is replete with electronic kickers, player-operated flippers, dinging bells and flashing lights. The idea is to keep the ball in play as long as possible.

The gambling type, as King demonstrated it, has a simple bingo-card sort of playing board and there is no effort to prolong the game, the better to get on with the gambling.

But inside, and King opened the back to demonstrate, the gambling machine "looks like the control section of an ICBM rocket — a beautiful and enormously complicated electronic machine," he said.

King said such machines can easily take in $400 a week in a corner tavern and are "such efficient, effective moppers up of the players' money that they tend to blanket out legitimate amusement machines."

The real evil of the system, he said, is the corruption it can cause on local law enforcement.

In Lincoln Tuesday the high was 25, the low, 5.

MRS. R. G. BROOKS MAY OPPOSE MORRISON

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Mrs. Ralph G. Brooks, widow of the late governor, said Tuesday she may still oppose Gov. Frank Morrison for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Mrs. Brooks made the comment after learning of Morrison's decision to seek re-election to a second term.

"I have not yet decided whether to run, but I am still considering the possibility," the former McCook school teacher said.

Upon her decision apparently rests the last chance of "name candidate" opposition for Morrison in the May 15 primary.

In other action, a poll of University of Nebraska students chose Republican Fred Seaton over Morrison in the first popular test of voting appeal between the two gubernatorial candidates.

Seaton attracted 815 votes, while Morrison drew 366. Six other persons received 10 or more votes.

In a more surprising development, Republicans so split their votes that President Kennedy led presidential contenders with 566.

Republican leaders were Sen. Barry Goldwater, 264; Richard Nixon, 245, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, 115.

Meanwhile, Seaton welcomed Morrison into the campaign.

"His candidacy gives Nebraska voters an opportunity to make a clear-cut choice of the direction our state is to take in the years ahead and the rate of progress at which it is to move," he noted.

Democratic National Committeeman Bernard Boyle of Omaha said he assumed Morrison would "run on his record," and called upon all Democrats "to support the nominee, whoever he is."

Democratic National Committeewoman Maurine Biegert of Shickley said she was "very pleased and very happy for the people of Nebraska that Governor Morrison has filed for re-election."

—RUSSIA SURPRISED—

West Ready To Stop 3-Power Test Ban Talks

Geneva (AP)—In an abrupt move that seemed to catch the Russians by surprise, the United States and Britain announced Tuesday they are ready to break off 3-power nuclear test ban talks.

They said that in line with Soviet demands, the test ban issue should be referred to the general disarmament negotiations due to open in Geneva in March.

As the nuclear talks reopened after a yearend recess, Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin apparently had expected some protracted negotiations.

Conference sources said Tsarapkin told the U.S. delegate Charles C. Stelle and Britain's Sir Michael Wright that he would submit their proposal to Moscow.

Tsarapkin later told newsmen he was "not pleased but puzzled" with the Western move. He did not elaborate, however.

Western diplomats expected the Soviet Union to agree that the test ban issue be negotiated within the wider issue of disarmament.

Their Plan

"After all it is their own proposal," one diplomatic source added.

The Soviet government formally proposed the merger of the test ban and disarmament issues last summer after the two Western powers submitted a complete draft of a test ban treaty. This draft included far-reaching Western concessions on the international control machinery the West feels is necessary to ensure observance of an agreement to ban nuclear weapons tests.

The Soviet government then withdrew all previous agreements worked out in more than two years of patient negotiations in Geneva. It said in view of the worsening political situation any type of international controls would be tantamount to western espionage on Soviet soil.

At the outset of the resumed negotiations, the United States and Britain formally rejected the Soviet demand for an uncontrolled moratorium on nuclear weapons tests, proposed two months ago.

Since the Russians advanced the idea after breaking a previous voluntary moratorium with a series of spectacular nuclear tests last fall, the Western delegates said their governments could not accept another moratorium.

Then Stelle and Wright told Tsarapkin that in view of the impasse, the only alternative was to break off the talks and refer the question to the 18-nation disarmament conference.

Reds Rejected Serious Talks

Washington (AP) — The United States accused Russia Tuesday of rejecting "serious negotiations" on a nuclear weapons test ban treaty. It said this caused the United States and Britain to agree to switch test ban talks to a general disarmament conference.

Hossack: 'Nothing Wrong' Found With Criticized Bids

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

State Engineer John Hossack said Tuesday there was "nothing wrong" with a bid on an Omaha Interstate project which has been criticized by at least one Omaha contractor.

The issue involved a December 21 bid letting on an Interstate project from 72nd to 31st and Grover which generally involved two phases: (1) 3 miles of paving, culverts and a bridge, and (2) guard rail.

When the bids were read at the public bid opening at the State Capitol December 21, a bid submitted by the combined firms of Grosshans and Petersen, Inc. of Marysville, Kan. and Parks Construction Co. of Omaha, appeared to have the low bid of $1,231,138 on the paving (phase 1) of the contract.

$1,257,020 Total

The same combined firm bid $25,881 on guard rail for the project, and the total of these two bids was $1,257,020.

A total of 5 firms bid on both phases of the project, and 3 firms bid on the guard rail alone.

The third low bid as read at the public bid opening December 21 was submitted by Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. whose bid was read as a total $1,270,806, including $23,892 on the guard rail.

V. K. Parks of the Parks Construction Co. had assumed from the public bid opening that they had the low bid, but when the apparent low bidders were officially announced by the Highway Department December 22, Kiewit was announced as the apparent low bidder on the paving part of the contract at $1,235,727.

Kiewit, Grof Bids

Joseph T. Grof of Tecumseh was announced as the apparent low bidder on the guard rail at $19,346.

The combined total of the Kiewit and Grof bids was $1,255,073, compared with the Grosshans and Petersen, Parks total of $1,257,020 for both phases.

The department said the latter bid indicated it wanted both phases of the project, or none of it, while the other two could be considered separately.

'Error Found'

As for the difference in Kiewit's paving bid as read at the public bid opening, and the official announcement the following day, Hossack said when the "arithmetic was checked" on the Kiewit bid this error was found:

Kiewit had changed the unit price on that portion of the contract calling for 112,223 square yards of 10-inch reinforced concrete from $5.95 a square yard to $5.85 — but had not changed the extension total which was originally computed at $5.95.

This made a difference of $11,222 in the total on this item.

Kiewit In Pencil

Of the 5 firms bidding on both the paving and guard rail, the Kiewit bid was the only one submitted in pencil. The other 4 either were submitted in ink or typewritten. There is no requirement that they be in ink or typed.

Of the same 5 firms bidding on the contract, 3 had filled in their bids with the unit prices listed both in figures and spelled out in words. Kiewit and Roberts Construction Co. of Lincoln used just the figures.

Although the specifications request that both be submitted, Hossack said it was "not necessary" that this be done and that contractors "can use either or both."

Hossack said Parks "complained to the Governor's Office" about the announced apparent low bidder and the way in which the bid was submitted.

'All Phases Checked'

He said Gov. Morrison asked the department to check into it, and that they did look into "all phases" of the bid and that the criticism was "entirely without foundation."

The state engineer said the contract has not yet been awarded. When asked if it would be, he replied, "I don't know."

He explained that the Kiewit bid was 12% over the engineer's estimate of $1,098,714 — and that when a bid is more than 10% over the department's estimate it becomes a "special case" as far as justifying it to the federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Alert Police Foil Burglar

Police thwarted a would-be burglar late Tuesday night at the Earl Carter Lumber Co. at 1900 R.

The burgler was inside the building and attempting to open the safe when Officers James N. Anderson and Richard Schneider drove by the building on the way to their district.

Lt. Bob Myers said the blinds on the windows of the building are always left open and when the officers noticed that they were closed, they stopped to investigate.

Anderson went to the front of the building and when he looked in, he spotted a man crouched behind the counter near the safe, Myers said.

Schneider then watched the front of the building while Anderson went to the rear. The intruder was just leaving the rear of the building when Anderson got there and after chasing him down the alley, the burglar was able to escape.

U.S., Common Market Agree On Tariff Cut

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — The United States and the European Common Market have agreed on a mutual cut of 20% in tariffs on industrial products and some reductions on agricultural products, a Common Market spokesman announced Tuesday night.

The arrangements were completed at a 20-minute meeting winding up 4 days of negotiations here between Howard Petersen, President Kennedy's special assistant for trade matters, and Jean Rey, a member of the Common Market executive commission.

However, some polishing was reported still required.

The concluding session was attended by W. Walton Butterworth, U.S. ambassador to the Common Market — the European Economic Community formed by France, West German, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

Regulations of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which sponsored the talks, provide that details must be kept secret until the agreement is signed.

A communique announced it will be signed within the next few days at GATT's headquarters in Geneva. The document then will be submitted to the Common Market council in February.

Approval by the U.S .Congress is unnecessary. Kennedy has the authority under existing law to make the cuts covered in the agreement.

GIRL SURVIVES NIGHT IN FREEZER

Borger, Tex. (AP) — Not a person was in sight at the drive-in. It was 11 p.m., closing time.

Sondra Posey, the only employe on duty, picked up a large container of steaming hot chili and took it into the walk-in freezer for the night.

The door slammed behind her.

Officers said a thief apparently hid himself until the teen-ager walked into the freezer. Then he slammed the door. He dropped a long knife sharpener through a hasp to prevent Sondra from leaving and took $30 from the cash register.

The thief turned out all lights but the night light so the drive-in would appear normal.

Sondra beat and kicked on the door, she said, but soon realized the fruitlessness of that.

She eased her pain by embracing the container of chili until it lost its heat.

"Then every time I sat down to feel sorry for myself, I'd hear mother say, 'Don't just sit there, you dope. Get up and move around.'"

Finally she gave up and sat down. Her shoes froze to the floor and she put her head in her hands on her knees. Her legs had no feeling from the knees down.

Mrs. Posey awoke to find her daughter absent and started a search first at the drive-in.

Through a pane of glass she saw Sondra's sweater and coat and aroused other workers, who came and rescued the girl.

Sondra's condition was list as serious at the hospital at first but she improved to a rating of good during the day.

Kitchen Sink Is About All Burglars Left

East St. Louis, Ill. (AP) — Determined, thorough burglars made off with virtually everything they could wrench loose from the home of Ray Brooks in suburban Centreville, police said Tuesday.

Missing are: the hot water heater, gas furnace, medicine cabinet, wash basin, two radios, a record player, tools and plumbing equipment.

Police said the burglars left by the front door, and took that along too.

Did they leave anything? Yes, the kitchen sink, hanging alone on the wall.

GOV. MORRISON TO RUN AGAIN

. . . Will Outline His Program 'Soon'

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. Frank Morrison announced officially Tuesday that he will seek a second term on the Democratic ticket as Nebraska's chief executive.

The announcement was made at a full-scale press conference at which he issued a general statement on his reasons for being a candidate, but deferred outlining a specific program until a further news conference he will hold "within a week."

At that time, he said, he will detail the "18 most significant programs" which he believes his administration has contributed to "Nebraska's forward march," and "6 areas of state responsibility expanded in this administration all within the framework of a reduced state tax levy."

Program To Grow?

In his prepared statement, Morrison said:

"Nebraska history cannot escape the fact that the central political issue of 1962 will be the question as to whether Nebraska's program of progress as initiated by the present state administration shall be killed in its infancy or be permitted to grow and develop to maturity.

"My duty, as I see that duty, is to improve, expand and defend its life and growth. From this responsibility I cannot and will not retreat.

"The target of this administration is to build on the greatness of the past and to move in the direction of full and complete development of our human and natural resources so that the youth of our state shall have opportunities unlimited."

Morrison said that as an attorney he would "enjoy" serving as Supreme Court chief justice, and that he sincerely appreciated the "many offers of support from outstanding lawyers and leaders of both political parties" to aid in his election to that post he had considered seeking.

Clear Conscience

"However, I could not in clear conscience turn aside from programs that this administration has inaugurated," he continued.

"The people serving this state with ability and dedication in this administration should in my opinion be given an opportunity to achieve their goals," said Morrison.

Noting that his administration was "but one year old," Morrison said, "we accept the challenge of proving the wisdom of continuing these efforts which are moving Nebraska forward. We are prepared to defend this effort against attack from any quarter."

Former Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton of Hastings is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Neither Seaton nor Morrison is expected to have serious, if any, opposition in their respective primaries — thus Morrison's announcement opens the way for an all-out battle between these two for voter approval in November.

Morrison was asked whether he would seek or welcome support from extremist groups, particularly the "extreme right," he replied, "I don't want any support from fanatics."

The future belongs to people "who can think their way out of problems," he said, adding that government should be conducted down the "great middle course dictated by thought and not by passion."

Support Program

Queried on support of another nature, the governor, who has been at odds with part of the Democratic party, was asked if he expected to have party support in his re-election bid, and answered, "I am sure than 99% of the Democrats, as well as a majority of the Republicans will support my program."

Asked about the party organization itself, Morrison said, "I expect to have the opposition of some of the professional politicians in both parties."

Queried specifically about Democratic National Committeeman Bernard J. Boyle, Morrison said, "I never engage in personalities," and then called a halt to the short press conference.

Blowing Soil Damages Western Wheat Fields

. . . Hay Supply Still Dwindling

Winter winds caused soil blowing in sections of western Nebraska last week and some damage to wheat fields resulted, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Losses from erosion and exposure were locally severe in the northern half of the Panhandle, according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Lighter soils in other parts of western and southwestern Nebraska also were affected, the report said. A snow cover provided partial protection to fall grains in the eastern half of the state.

Hay supplies continued to dwindle rapidly as feed requirements remained heavy. But cattle were moving back into stubble and stalk fields for foraging as snow cover lessened.

More than a third of Nebraska's counties report below average hay and roughage supplies, the report said. Range feed has been adequate except in the northwest sections hit by dry weather last year. Most ranges were open in the Sandhills and southwest.

Pasture feed supplies were short in many eastern counties, reflecting persistent snow cover in some sections and heavy usage in other.

Stock Hard Hit

Cold weather has been rough on livestock, the report said. New crop calves, lambs and pigs are beginning to arrive in increasing numbers. Careful attention and care have held down losses from low temperatures.

Harvest of remaining crops remained at a virtual standstill last week. Here and there some corn was picked but not much of the remaining acreage, which is mostly in southeastern counties, was harvested. Little if any progress was noted in harvesting castor beans.

Dakota City School Closed By Flu Bug

Sioux City (AP) — Sioux City schools remained open Tuesday despite heavy absenteeism because of the flu, but at nearby Dakota City, Neb., classes were suspended at least until Thursday for the same reason.

At Homer, Neb., classes were resumed Monday after being suspended for 4 days.

The Dakota City schools were closed at noon Monday when absenteeism approached 30%. About 50% of the high school teachers were out and 95 of the 370 pupils in the system were absent by Monday noon.

Supt. Garlie Sailor said classes were tentatively scheduled to be resumed Thursday morning.

Tuesday night's basketball game between Dakota City and Wayne Hahn was cancelled.

Homer schools opened last Monday and closed Tuesday. An attempt was made to open again Wednesday but after about a half hour it became apparent numbers would be too few and they were closed again until Monday.

Supt. Charles Irwin said most of the pupils were absent about a week with the flu and when they returned they were still in a weakened condition.

Cattleman Arrives In Hollywood

Don Hight, second from right, South Dakota rancher who last week drove his herd of 1,800 head of cattle across a snow-swept prairie, is met by two members of the cast of television's "Rawhide" series as he arrived in Los Angeles to play a role in the series. He is greeted by Paul Brinegar, left, and Steve Raines. With Hight is his wife, Adeline. Hight, aided by a crew of cowboys, drove the herd 65 miles to market to avoid high trucking costs.

MIDNIGHT COASTING SPREE NETS ALASKANS $5 FINES

Ketchikan, Alaska (AP) — District Magistrate Richard Lauber and Robert H. Ziegler, Ketchikan attorney, were each fined $5 apiece Tuesday for coasting on an icy street after midnight.

Ziegler, 40, said he was babysitting Monday night and Lauber, 33, called to him to come out and join the fun.

"You were too easily enticed," said Esther Powell, who is Lauber's deputy magistrate. 'The fine will be $5."

Both pleaded guilty. They were arrested at 1:25 a.m. by police Sgt. Carl Webb. Webb had warned they were violating an ordinance which says sleds, coaster wagons and toy cars must not be used on the streets.

Lauber protested they were sliding on the snow and ice, not on the streets. Webb, unimpressed, whipped out his citation book.

Accra, Ghana (UPI) — Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, who has been touring West Africa, left for Mali. The Ghana News Agency said he was escorted to the airport by President Kwame Nkrumah and several cabinet ministers.

2nd Producing Well Located In Lincoln Co.

North Platte (AP) — Lincoln County has its second producing oil well.

Drillers struck oil on the Donald Melton ranch 10 miles south of Wallace Tuesday morning in basal sand between 4,497 and 4,502 feet.

Melton said there is 600 feet of free oil and gas on top of it. He added that he thought the new well would be better than the other producing well on his ranch. The first well brought into production last year, averages 75 barrels per day.

Melton said nothing more would be done until the casing is put down.

The oil lease is held by the E. H. Adair Co., Wichita, and drilling was done by the Mast Drilling Co., Russell, Kan.

Sewage Disposal Grants For Four Towns Approved

Washington (AP) — Grants to help 4 local government units in Nebraska to finance sewage disposal projects have been announced by the Public Health Service.

The service listed the recipients, the amount of grant, and the estimated total cost of the project as follows:

Orleans, $13,333 and $44,444; Village of Harvard, $9,845 and $32,818; Village of Otoe, $9,060 and $83,800; and Village of Goehner, $6,576 and $47,798.

Mississippi Paper Ceases Publication

Jackson, Miss. (UPI)—The Jackson State Times, an afternoon and Sunday morning newspaper which would have been 7 years old Feb. 28, ceased publication Tuesday.

Its demise left in Jackson the afternoon Jackson Daily News and the morning Clarion-Ledger, published jointly by the Mississippi Publishers Corp.

R. E. Dumas Milner, president of the State Times Publishing Corp., made the announcement of the suspension of the State Times to its employes.

"Inasmuch as a vast majority of the advertisers continued to decrease their advertising in the State Times, the decision has been made to close the newspaper and discontinue its publication," Milner said.

Milner said the newspaper's equipment and circulation list had been sold to Mississippi Publishers Corp. No price was mentioned. The State Times building will be retained by Milner.

Latest available audited circulation figures, as of Sept. 30, 1960, showed the State Times with 22,677 evening circulation and 21,026 for its Sunday edition. On the same date, the Jackson Daily News had a circulation of 40,980, the Clarion-Ledger 51,349 and the combined Sunday edition 86,842.

Milner told the 105 full-time employes of the paper they would be given a minimum of two weeks severance pay and the paper would set up a job relocation bureau.

The first edition of the State Times was published on Feb. 28, 1955. A group of Jackson businessmen, including Milner, organized it and sold stock to the public under the Citizens Publishing Co., which later was placed under the Dumas Milner Corp., a diversified company which manufactures household products.

Industrialist May Have Helped Free California Boys

Cleveland, Ohio (UPI)—Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton Tuesday hinted he aided in the release of two young Californians from an East Berlin jail.

Eaton told United Press International he had "made some inquiries" that may have resulted in freedom for Victory Pankey, 18, and Gilbert Ferry, 20, both of Tustin, Calif.

Pankey and Ferry were sentenced to two years in prison for trying to help an East Berlin girl flee to West Berlin. They served 4 months.

Eaton said the two youths were family friends of his niece, Mrs. L. D. Fedderman of Santa Anna, Calif.

Corrigan New President Of Peace Officers

North Platte (AP) — Douglas County Sheriff Pat Corrigan of Omaha was advanced from vice president to president of the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association Tuesday.

Corrigan

The law officers, winding up their convention here, also advanced Kimball County Sheriff James Shaul of Kimball to second vice president and Jefferson County Sheriff Frank Knocke of Fairbury to 3rd vice president.

Phelps County Sheriff Wilbur R. Gewecke of Holdrege was elected 4th vice president.

Special Agent James Flood of the Omaha field office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was elected chairman of the resolutions committee for the 25th consecutive year. Flood has been stationed in Omaha for 35 years.

Omaha was selected as the 1963 convention city.

On the closing day the sheriffs saw an aviation demonstration conducted by the State Department of Aeronautics.

Bored Grandma Opens Home Gambling Casino

London (AP) — Grandmother Connie Arundell got bored, so she opened a gambling casino in her suburban home.

Under recent legislation gambling among club members is legal in Britain. The house makes its profits by charging players fees.

Fun-loving, 54-year-old Mrs. Arundell insists she isn't in it only for the money.

"I just like meeting people and having lots to do," she says.

She converted the ground floor of her 6-bedroom house into "The Dolphin Gambling and Social Club."

"There's nothing to it, really," said widowed Mrs. Arundell. "We bought the baize cloth and the roulette wheel and a chemin-de-fer shoe at a big department store. You can get anything at some of these department stores."

She converted her parlor into a cocktail lounge. In the corner is a slot machine which operates at 6 pence (7 cents) a time.

Mrs. Arundell's club, after quietly operating for 3 months, has 90 members, "none of them great gamblers."

They are mainly local people, storekeepers, businessmen, retired folks, a bookmaker or two.

"We're strictly middle class," she says.

Finland Re-elects President

Helsinki, Finland (AP)—Complete unofficial returns early Wednesday gave President Urho Kekkonen a sweeping victory for re-election as chief executive of this small nation on the Soviet doorstep.

In balloting Monday and Tuesday the Finns voted overwhelmingly in favor of electors supporting the 61-year-old Kekkonen. The 300 electors will meet in Helsinki Feb. 15 to choose a president.

The results showed Kekkonen had won 145 electors. In addition he had indicated support of about 50 right-wing electors who have no candidate of their own.

The preliminary distribution of seats:

Kekkonen, Agrarian, 145 electors.

Paavo Aitio, Communist, 63.

Emil Skog, Social-Democrat opposition, 2.

Rafael Paasio, Social-Democrat, 36.

Conservative coalition party, 38.

Swedish minority party, 15.

Finnish Liberal party, 1.

In the 1956 parliamentary election, Kekkonen won 88 electorial seats, the Communists took 56 and the Social-Democrats 72.

A simple majority, 151 electoral votes, is needed to win the presidential office.

Ord Worker Dies In Fall

Ord (AP) — Warren Scheidler, 23, of Ord, partner in a dirt moving and construction firm, was killed Tuesday when he was knocked from a tree by a falling limb.

Warren and his brother, Marvin, also a partner in the firm, were taking down a large tree.

Marvin Scheidler was keeping tension on the limb with a tractor and line while Warren sawed the limb from a crotch in the tree just below the limb being removed. The limb snapped suddenly and knocked him to the ground 25 feet below.

Gas Tax Group Meets Next Week

The legislative council committee on the distribution of the gas tax will hold two meetings next week.

The first will be in Omaha on Wednesday, Jan. 24, in the county courthouse. It will open at 10 a.m.

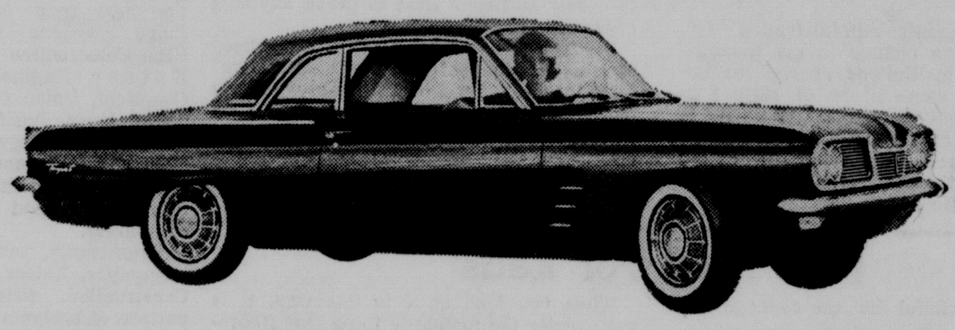

The committee will be in Norfolk on Jan. 25 for a hearing in the City Auditorium beginning at 10 a.m.

Interested city and county officials were urged to testify at the hearings.

Morrison Seeks Second Term

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The political air was considerably cleared with announcement by Gov. Frank Morrison that he would seek a second term as governor on the Democratic ticket. This will pit him, probably, against Hastings publisher and former Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton. It is considered unlikely, at least, that either Morrison or Seaton could be defeated in the primary. The split in the Democratic party is at a comparatively high level and not deep enough into the ranks of the party to defeat Morrison in the primary.

In announcing his decision, Morrison spoke in even more general terms than did Seaton when he made his intentions known some time ago.

Look At Past And Future

The governor, however, has said that he will present very shortly an analysis of his first year in office and a look at what he hopes for in the future. Morrison said: "I cannot in clear conscience turn aside from programs that this administration has inaugurated. The people serving this state with ability and dedication in this administration should, in my opinion, be given an opportunity to achieve their goals.

"Many of these people left more lucrative employment to serve their state. Fairness dictates that they be given an opportunity to carry on their programs to a point where their worth is fully established . . . This administration is but one year old. We accept the challenge of proving the wisdom of continuing these efforts which are moving Nebraska forward. We are prepared to defend this effort against attack from any quarter."

Obviously, the proof of this statement will be in the governor's presentation of his achievements and his expectations. But some areas of state government are well enough known that they can be pointed out without any assistance from the governor. There is little doubt that the governor's list of the past and future will contain such things as tourist promotion, parks and recreation development, stimulation of the cultural foundations of the state, improvements for the care of retarded children, industrial development, agricultural research and resources development.

During Morrison's administration, too, there has been a change in the management of state institutions as well as improvements in some areas of state purchasing. The governor sparked early in his administration the nation's first breadbasket conference, has shown an active interest in youth affairs, has maintained a vigorous traffic safety program, has selected departmental heads of ability and has been involved in no major failure. To list all of these things—and the governor will no doubt submit many more—is certainly to present the governor in a favorable light.

It is fair to say, too, that he is entitled to such a light. If the governor is to be given credit for things that are lacking, he cannot be denied a part in that which has been accomplished. Some will question, however, exactly what Morrison should have credit for and not everyone will agree that all of the above things are the governor's program. There can be no doubt that he has earned credit for tourist promotion, for cultural development, for the safety program, for the retarded children work and for his appointments. All of these are commendable achievements and it is hoped that they are continued, whoever the next governor might be.

Those things that are left are the areas in which authorship will be disputed. Still, Governor Morrison has promoted those things and approved of them and had he failed to do this, some of them would probably have been destroyed. Agricultural research would not be successful without the full support of the governor and his weight has been felt in a number of important resources development projects.

It is too early yet to judge the governor's administration of state institutions under the new system started Jan. 1. The first actions of George Morris, whom Morrison appointed to direct the affairs of state institutions, have been commendable and Morris has the potential to make the new program a very fine success.

The governor has shown little inclination to provide leadership in the field of taxes and education and has expounded a political philosophy that is foreign to the thinking of many who are engaged in that game. He has had a tendency to speak in generalities and has shown hesitancy in backing up his words with deeds. On balance, the governor's first year has been as constructive as it might be expected to be by the average observer and the governor's implication that one year is hardly sufficient time to prove anything cannot be challenged.

The Balance Sheet

So, has the governor's first year been such as to promise progress in the future? Most people, then, will probably vote in November on what they expect from Morrison as opposed to what the GOP has to offer. To date, no GOP candidate has shown promise beyond or even equal to that of the incumbent governor.

Free Mail For Reds

While it is doubtful that the average Nebraskan is too concerned one way or another with it, Rep. Glenn Cunningham is making every effort to eliminate the free distribution of communist mail in the United States. If no thought at all is given to this procedure, it is expected that it would be generally condemned. But it is a mistake to think that Uncle Sam is just doing a good turn for the Commies in letting them mail things free all over the U.S.

There is nobody in the Post Office Department with such kind feelings toward the Russians. What the program actually is is an expression of the confidence of the United States in the free enterprise system. We distribute Russian mail free in the U.S. and they distribute U.S. mail free in Russia. We are simply betting that we can make more success selling the Russian people on our way of life and philosophy than the Reds can make in selling Americans on communism.

When you look at it in this way, it is not exactly the foolhardy thing that Representative Cunningham would have us believe. There is no question that we could eliminate this program and go on living. It is doubtful that the elimination of the program would make any difference at all in the overall relations between the U.S. and Russia and in the final outcome of the struggle between East and West.

Many things would be unthinkable, as Representative Cunningham puts it, if we looked at only one side of the picture. Maybe it is unthinkable that we have American boys stationed in Germany when they would much rather be at home but we have chosen to pit democracy against communism there and are confident of which side will win. We have simply done the same thing in the smaller area of free mail distribution. It is ridiculous to sell the free mail program as some sort of concession to Russia and discriminate against our own people.

Our Own Example

The Denver Post asserts that the U.S. tariff bargain with the European Economic Community, now being concluded at Brussels, Belgium, opens bright new horizons for American producers.

The bargain which President Kennedy describes as a "bold new instrument" carries the United States farther along the road to free trade, far enough, in the opinion of many, to culminate ultimately in an integrated common market, not just for the present six European nations but for the entire western family of nations. In this respect the move not only offers American business bright new horizons, but fundamental changes as well in the traditional American concept of foreign trade.

In principle Americans need have no fear of such innovation, only a sense of prudence in bringing it about. An integrated market is not novel. The most recent and brilliant example of one such, excepting the European Economic Community, is in the relationship of the American states themselves. From the beginning of the federal union the member states practiced a free flow of goods and free movement of workmen from state to state under integration that was not only economic, but political. There were many special virtues contributing to the brilliant success of the United States but economic integration must be classed as one of the important ones.

Though the United States has long cherished the principle of high tariff barriers in international trade it would have none of it at home, and, thereby, showed an inconsistency. For tariff barriers restrain trade while America grew within its own borders by bringing as many citizens into the market as possible.

Disillusionment

The National Geographic Society has a reputation for remaining aloof from politics and human venality. It spends its time on global matters, communing with the earth itself. Now it has shattered precedent.

The society has made charges of an instance of conflict of interest exceeding anything uncovered in Washington for decades. It is out after the ground hog.

From time immemorial honest people have believed confidently that on February 2 each year the ground hog leaves his winter quarters and steps outside to judge the weather. He does it so people can plan. If, upon stepping outside, the sun is shining and he sees his shadow, then it means that there will be six weeks more of winter and that crops will be slim. But if the day is disagreeable and there is no sun to cast a shadow, then an early spring is in store and crops will be good.

The society says this is all bunk. The ground hog has utterly no sense of social obligation, doesn't give a hang how long winter hangs on, or how any harvest turns out, and if he has any attitude toward people, it is a low one. February 2 can come or go as far as he is concerned and he generally sleeps right through it.

This may be true. The National Geographic Society weighs its statements carefully, and is apt to lean to the side of caution. Still it must accept the responsibility for destroying one more thing we have all been living by, and depending upon. Now about all we have left is Valentine's day and that's not quite enough to anchor a stable and happy social order. The least that can be said is that the society now owes it to us to find an honest animal in place of the ground hog to signal our release from the servitude of winter.

Conflict Of Interest Hovers Over McCone

WASHINGTON — In June, 1958, John A. McCone, the new would-be Central Intelligence chief, wrote a letter to Sherman Adams, later kicked out of government for a conflict of interest, to see whether he, McCone, might have a conflict of interest as new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Ignoring the fact that the Goldfine charges against Adams had not made him the best man to act as judge, McCone listed the Utah Construction Company, Kaiser Engineers, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide as doing large business with the Atomic Energy Commission, and simultaneously doing business with his own privately owned shipping companies.

Significantly, two of these companies, Kaiser and Utah Construction, showed the pattern of business links McCone has kept with his old associates and war profiteers. McCone was president and a partner with Henry Kaiser and associates in running the California shipbuilding company during the war when they rolled an investment of $100,000 into an over-all profit of $44,000,000.

Later, when he was under secretary of the Air Force, McCone gave his old partner a quickie flying boxcar contract at three times the cost the Air Force was paying Fairchild. Incidentally, Senate hearings conducted by the late Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire showed that Kaiser and his subsidiaries got a total of $219,011,919 in government RFC loans; received $6,568,000,000 in government contracts and got approximately half a billion dollars in quickie tax write-offs.

Kaiser has also been one of the biggest contractors with the Atomic Energy Commission including the period when Kaiser's old partner, John McCone, was AEC chairman.

The company which operates under the all-inclusive name of Utah Construction Company is also part-owned by Kaiser and actually is a big seller of uranium to the AEC through its subsidiary, Lucky Mc Uranium Corp.

Union Carbide is one of the biggest contractors with the Atomic Energy Commission. It not only sells uranium to the AEC, but operates AEC plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky. Both Union Carbide and the Kaiser interests benefited from the AEC's decision not to buy uranium from "underdeveloped countries." This obviously played into the hands of established American companies such as Union Carbide and Kaiser.

Yet McCone, before he became chairman of the AEC in 1958, admitted that his personally owned shipping line, Joshua Hendy, handled "inter-coastal and coastwise transportation of chemicals, transports products for Union Carbide, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, and others."

Dilworth-Clark In Liberal Axis

WASHINGTON — The two paladins of Philadelphia municipal reform a decade ago will ride together in statewide Democratic primaries this fall.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth has resigned his post, effective February 12, to seek the nomination for governor. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who went from city hall into the Senate, will seek a second term.

Clark apparently will have no opposition in the primary. What is in store within his party for the colorful ex-marine, Dilworth, is less clear, but he has plainly grown tired of waiting for the more conservative Democrats to grow fond of him.

Among those who have dissembled their love for the mayor and, whenever possible, also kicked him downstairs is Rep. William J. Green Jr., head of the Philadelphia Democratic organization. At this point President Kennedy becomes involved, for Green was an early supporter of his presidential bid and the eager Green hand has successfully reached for various forms of federal patronage.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Dilworth-Clark camp has not overlooked the troublesome potential of the Green influence with the White House. Knowing also the President's fondness for polls, they have had a poll taken by a trusted Kennedy poll-taker, and it is being conveyed to the administration's political arm.

While not definitive, it gives encouragement to Dilworth's argument that he can win. No other phrase equals those words in political magic when backed by credible evidence.

A quarrel with Green over the succession at city hall is a possibility. Of this, Dilworth spokesmen say only that they will not hesitate to tangle with Green if necessary.

Until now the slates for the off-year campaigns have waited upon the resolution of a bitter, year-long quarrel over congressional redistricting. Pennsylvania loses three House seats because its population gain lagged behind that of most other states.

Confronting a deadline of February 20, the state legislative redistricting committees have come up with a pattern which political writers believe will become law. Under it Green will lose one of Philadelphia's six seats, all held by Democrats, and Republican leaders have had to agree to consolidate four Republican districts into three.

Democrats seem to have achieved their preference in a solution of the third lost chair, but the decision is not yet final.

Unless agreement is reached promptly, all of Pennsylvania's representatives must run at large, which neither party wants. It is abhorrent to all present members who are little known outside of their own districts and would face costly, energy-consuming statewide campaigns.

Morrison Editorial

Bellevue, Neb.

I read with interest and pride your editorial stating facts which everyone knows about Frank Morrison and his political cronies. The forceful way in which the old adage, "The truth hurts," has often been brought home to those criticizing your stand makes it obvious that Morrison himself is speaking.

For myself, I applaud the fearless, vigorous editor of The Star who has exposed the politics of the governor and who by his frank and sound opinions stands to improve the quality of the public service.

OLD DEMOCRAT

Omaha, Neb.

It should be obvious to everyone that Gov. Morrison is inspiring letters to the editor to stifle honest and forthright criticism of his administration. The reason for this is clear. Your editorial exposed for the first time the gross violation of the public trust, deliberately perpetrated on the public by the governor to insure his re-election.

Morrison proclaimed, with great moral righteousness, an edict that anyone officially connected with organized politics could not conduct business with state agencies. Yet his campaign manager, Jim Exon, was listed on his inaugural ball program as personnel advisor and he has profited from contracts awarded him by the purchasing department.

F. HAZARD

Waverly, Neb.

It would be difficult to imagine that a reputable newspaper could stoop to such an all-time low as you have recently done. I can't imagine the apparent stupidity that would allow you to write such a dastardly editorial only to be followed by constant destructive criticism in each day's edition.

I feel confident that even the governor would admit he needs constructive help. After all, what human being doesn't? The thing that is so hard to understand is why, after all these years, you begin to open your eyes to the fault of an administration that is trying so desperately to do everything that is good for Nebraska and its people. It is a rare occasion when you point out the good that the governor has done. The face of Nebraska has been completely lifted and people of intelligence and respect admit it. If you really want to help, why not point out the many things that have been done and are in the process of being done? Certainly neither Frank Morrison nor any other governor could possibly complete a program at the end of one year. Why do you begin to discredit him when he is only halfway on the road to what has been a new lift, a new look, a new attitude for the state?

I am proud to sign my name and proud to be a booster of all the things the governor is trying to do for me, my family and for you and your family.

JAMES ANDERSON

Brewster, Neb.

I am pleased to note that numerous readers have seen fit to remind you of the "all-time low" standard to which you have reduced the editorial page of The Star. You have used language far beneath the dignity of your position.

If it is your desire to cripple the record of the governor or to sabotage the Democratic party by your disparaging editorial, why don't you join the wrecking crew on the other side of the fence where you rightfully belong?

Governor Morrison has worked tirelessly and ceaselessly to put this state in the status, in numerous ways, where it rightfully belongs. No governor has ever done more and many of his predecessors have done less. Maybe he has unintentionally made errors, but those who make no errors never make anything. He is entitled to have his errors measured against his accomplishments.

I am pleased to note that, to date, the governor has not prostrated the dignity of his office enough to reply to your unwarranted diatribe.

H. C. COX

Omaha, Neb.

My compliments on a thoughtful and timely editorial. Not only has the approach to state purchasing been one of shabby politics, but the same is true of every other program advanced by the governor's administration.

The approach to tourist promotion is nothing but a convenient and obviously phony political gimmick devised by Morrison to promote himself for re-election and to excuse himself for not tackling a single controversial issue or significant problem in the last two years. Anyone in his right mind would promote tourist trade, but to make it an issue is a case of political tactics.

MRS. J. A.

Lincoln, Neb.

This is directed to Mrs. Francis V. Robinson, Mrs. J. W. Staton and the citizens of Lincoln. I, like many other young citizens of the United States, find it very difficult to understand the logic of many adults. We have been taught the American way of life in our finest schools, which states that we are the proud owners of many freedoms. Among them we find one quickly forgotten when something goes against our personal way of thinking. It is one that we may all be proud of — freedom of the press. This is a very important gift from our forebears — a gift that boys have given their lives for in wars ever since our Constitution was first written.

The human mind is endowed with memory, but sometimes our personal feelings show us only the wrongdoings of others. What I am trying to say is, the press will and does print two sides of each story. Looking back, we will find many good articles on our Nebraska governor. He is a good man but he is also human and humans are not without personal error.

I will say neither pro nor con to my feelings on our governor's actions or ideas but I will in every manner uphold the press. May it always have the freedom to print both sides to all issues, no matter what they may be.

Common Market

Lincoln, Neb.

The first ordinance of the European Common Market became effective Jan. 1. This ordinance forbids all market agreements within the borders of the Market that might be, or are detrimental to the best interest of said Market. It is well, accordingly, that the President in his message to the Congress emphasized the need for a closer alliance with the nations composing the Common Market. There is little doubt that Britain will join the Market very shortly. When this happens, the United States will be faced with the very practical problem of competing with the markets within this new economic structure.

It will be necessary for Congress to give the President rather broad powers in fixing reciprocal tariffs for trade in the Common Market. Otherwise we could well be accused of being imperialistic, not alone by the communists, but by members of the Common Market.

Many of the nations of freedom-loving people are not members of the Common Market. Yet they should not be overlooked for they are interested in maintaining their independence as free peoples. These nations, some large, some small, some young, some old, are in many instances so located geographically that they know not when, as was the case with Tibet, they will be overrun by the communists.

So in addition to the Common Market, I believe as do many others that the world needs a unifying framework of all the free nations, whether they be members of the Common Market or not.

Mutual Respect

Lincoln, Neb.

In two articles in the Jan. 13 Star, the point was stressed of the astonishment of visiting notables at the "relaxed" and "unrestrained familiarity" of students with their teachers and children with their parents. In each case the writer seemingly had no feeling that anything was wrong. He just thought the visitors' attitudes "odd."

How long has it been since anyone has heard a child answer a question with a "yes, sir," or a "no, sir"? The truth of the matter is, this laxity in manners goes hand in hand with relaxing morals and a lessening of respect for dignity and authority until we are becoming a nation of mental and moral "slobs."

It is not just our children; they are only following the example of their parents. We all seem to forget this when we are deploring juvenile delinquency. Of course, the kids add a few refinements of their own, but the underlying cause of delinquency is lack of training and teaching in the basic elements of truth, honor and respect for other people's rights and property.

There is so much bridge to play, TV to watch and "The Twist" to learn, not to mention committee meetings and bazaars to raise money for the betterment and education of heathen children in far-flung corners of the world. Meanwhile little Johnnie and Susie come home from school to an empty and unsupervised house, with a choice of a cold snack or a note telling them to run down to the corner. Mother, with the righteous glow of a do-gooder, rushes home barely in time to thaw a glutinous glob of something she calls dinner. By this time, the kids are too full to eat and take off for parts unknown. They come home when the fancy strikes them, to go to bed unkissed and, it must seem to them, unloved.

Is it then any wonder that they become intolerant of restraint from any other source, when they have never known the restraint of love and respect? The respect to be effective must be mutual.

If anyone suggested to these parents that they didn't love their children, they would be furious, pointing out that they are the best dressed in their school, have the most expensive wrist-watches, fur coats, their own cars. This is love? How many actually know where their children go, with whom and to do what?

I don't know what the remedy is. I don't know the way back or even if there is a way back for most of us. But one thing I know for sure. The change must be in the parent before it can be communicated to the child!

No wonder the visitors from other lands are "astonished." Many of us here at home are, too.

Grenades, Bullets, Knives Take Heavy Toll In Algerian Fighting

Algiers (AP)—Grenades, bullets and knives killed nearly 30 more persons in Algeria Tuesday while top officials studied ways of coping with rising insecurity and ruin.

Police rushed from one scene of violence to another. The French minister of Algerian affairs, Louis Joxe, sped back to Paris to inform President Charles de Gaulle of the rising disorder.

One possibility was that a state of siege might be clamped on the largest cities to deal with the terrorism that has reached new peaks since de Gaulle's year-end speech. In it de Gaulle announced plans to withdraw the bulk of French troops from this North African territory whose future is bloodily contested by the European settlers and the Algerians.

Oran had the highest casualties of the day. Unofficial figures showed 15 men and boys were killed before the 11 p.m. curfew.

In Algiers, at least 11 were reported dead. Four victims were Moslem terrorists mowed down by police forces on whom they opened fire, authorities said.

Other incidents were reported in smaller cities.

Meanwhile, the European Secret Army Organization took its propaganda campaign to the Moslem population in a clandestine broadcast heard in Bone. The Arabic-speaking announcer said:

Understand

"You must understand that we are in this country and we will never leave."

"Moslems," he continued, "we are, both of us, in the same boat. The storm is raging. We will all be saved or we will all perish together."

In Paris, the Interior Ministry announced that 33 right-wing secret army activists had been jailed and 13 placed in internment camps during the first two weeks of January.

A state of siege on Algeria's most explosive cities, Algiers and Oran, would be only a technicality as both cities have been living on a virtual wartime footing for years. But it might have a psychological effect and involve severe curtailment of the movement of persons and vehicles.

Officials said the situation is more serious than in early 1957, when Moslem terrorist attacks were at their peak, reaching 30 a day in Algiers alone.

Now, however, authorities have to fight against both Moslems and European underground movements.

'OPERATION LONG THRUST II' PUTS U.S. TROOPS IN EUROPE

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—A huge jet transport flew a full load of U.S. troops from the U.S. West Coast to Europe in little more than 10 hours Tuesday in the opening phase of "Operation Long Thrust II."

The operation to airlift 6,000 men from McChord, Wash. Airbase to Rhein-Main Base in Germany is widely viewed as a major test of how U.S. forces can be rushed overseas in an emergency.

The exercise was given added weight in the light of the explosive Berlin crisis.

It involves 3 reinforced battle groups of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The silvery transport jet that landed here brought the first elements of the division headquarters unit, 18 officers and 54 men. Lt. Col. James Grimsley, 40, of Florence, S.C., division operations officer, led the group.

They were met by Gen. Charles D. Palmer, deputy commander in chief of the U.S. European Command in Paris.

Col. Jacques Pueche, representing French General Pierre Jacquaut, commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Central Europe, also was on hand for the arrival ceremonies.

The troops' exercise in Europe — on maneuver grounds at Hohenfels near the Czechoslovak Iron Curtain border — is being held within the NATO framework.

German Army and Air Force officials watched the troops debark from the giant C135 jet transport after its nonstop flight via Greenland to Europe.

Another jet flight, carrying 80 officers and men of the 1st Battle Group, 22nd Infantry, arrived later Tuesday.

Battle groups being flown over are the 1st Battle Group, 22nd Infantry, the 2nd, 39th Infantry and the 2nd, 47th Infantry.

The division commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Train, is due at Rhein-Main Wednesday when the big airlift is expected to swing into full gear with the arrival of 14 planeloads of troops.

Morrison Seeks Second Term

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The political air was considerably cleared with announcement by Gov. Frank Morrison that he would seek a second term as governor on the Democratic ticket. This will pit him, probably, against Hastings publisher and former Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton. It is considered unlikely, at least, that either Morrison or Seaton could be defeated in the primary. The split in the Democratic party is at a comparatively high level and not deep enough into the ranks of the party to defeat Morrison in the primary.

In announcing his decision, Morrison spoke in even more general terms than did Seaton when he made his intentions known some time ago. The governor, however, has said that he will present very shortly an analysis of his first year in office and a look at what he hopes for in the future. Morrison said: "I cannot in clear conscience turn aside from programs that this administration has inaugurated. The people serving this state with ability and dedication in this administration should, in my opinion, be given an opportunity to achieve their goals.

Look At Past And Future

"Many of these people left more lucrative employment to serve their state. Fairness dictates that they be given an opportunity to carry on their programs to a point where their worth is fully established . . . This administration is but one year old. We accept the challenge of proving the wisdom of continuing these efforts which are moving Nebraska forward. We are prepared to defend this effort against attack from any quarter."

Obviously, the proof of this statement will be in the governor's presentation of his achievements and his expectations. But some areas of state government are well enough known that they can be pointed out without any assistance from the governor. There is little doubt that the governor's list of the past and future will contain such things as tourist promotion, parks and recreation development, stimulation of the cultural foundations of the state, improvements for the care of retarded children, industrial development, agricultural research and resources development.

During Morrison's administration, too, there has been a change in the management of state institutions as well as improvements in some areas of state purchasing. The governor sparked early in his administration the nation's first breadbasket conference, has shown an active interest in youth affairs, has maintained a vigorous traffic safety program, has selected departmental heads of ability and has been involved in no major failure. To list all of these things—and the governor will no doubt submit many more—is certainly to present the governor in a favorable light.

It is fair to say, too, that he is entitled to such a light. If the governor is to be given credit for things that are lacking, he cannot be denied a part in that which has been accomplished. Some will question, however, exactly what Morrison should have credit for and not everyone will agree that all of the above things are the governor's program. There can be no doubt that he has earned credit for tourist promotion, for cultural development, for the safety program, for the retarded children work and for his appointments. All of these are commendable achievements and it is hoped that they are continued, whoever the next governor might be.

Those things that are left are the areas in which authorship will be disputed. Still, Governor Morrison has promoted those things and approved of them and had he failed to do this, some of them would probably have been destroyed. Agricultural research would not be successful without the full support of the governor and his weight has been felt in a number of important resources development projects.

It is too early yet to judge the governor's administration of state institutions under the new system started Jan. 1. The first actions of George Morris, whom Morrison appointed to direct the affairs of state institutions, have been commendable and Morris has the potential to make the new program a very fine success.

The governor has shown little inclination to provide leadership in the field of taxes and education and has expounded a political philosophy that is foreign to the thinking of many who are engaged in that game. He has had a tendency to speak in generalities and has shown hesitancy in backing up his words with deeds. On balance, the governor's first year has been as constructive as it might be expected to be by the average observer and the governor's implication that one year is hardly sufficient time to prove anything cannot be challenged.

The Balance Sheet

So, has the governor's first year been such as to promise progress in the future? Most people, then, will probably vote in November on what they expect from Morrison as opposed to what the GOP has to offer. To date, no GOP candidate has shown promise beyond or even equal to that of the incumbent governor.

Free Mail For Reds

While it is doubtful that the average Nebraskan is too concerned one way or another with it, Rep. Glenn Cunningham is making every effort to eliminate the free distribution of communist mail in the United States. If no thought at all is given to this procedure, it is expected that it would be generally condemned. But it is a mistake to think that Uncle Sam is just doing a good turn for the Commies in letting them mail things free all over the U.S.

There is nobody in the Post Office Department with such kind feelings toward the Russians. What the program actually is is an expression of the confidence of the United States in the free enterprise system. We distribute Russian mail free in the U.S. and they distribute U.S. mail free in Russia. We are simply betting that we can make more success selling the Russian people on our way of life and philosophy than the Reds can make in selling Americans on communism.

When you look at it in this way, it is not exactly the foolhardy thing that Representative Cunningham would have us believe. There is no question that we could eliminate this program and go on living. It is doubtful that the elimination of the program would make any difference at all in the overall relations between the U.S. and Russia and in the final outcome of the struggle between East and West.

Many things would be unthinkable, as Representative Cunningham puts it, if we looked at only one side of the picture. Maybe it is unthinkable that we have American boys stationed in Germany when they would much rather be at home but we have chosen to pit democracy against communism there and are confident of which side will win. We have simply done the same thing in the smaller area of free mail distribution. It is ridiculous to sell the free mail program as some sort of concession to Russia and discriminate against our own people.

Our Own Example

The Denver Post asserts that the U.S. tariff bargain with the European Economic Community, now being concluded at Brussels, Belgium, opens bright new horizons for American producers.

The bargain which President Kennedy describes as a "bold new instrument" carries the United States farther along the road to free trade, far enough, in the opinion of many, to culminate ultimately in an integrated common market, not just for the present six European nations but for the entire western family of nations. In this respect the move not only offers American business bright new horizons, but fundamental changes as well in the traditional American concept of foreign trade.

In principle Americans need have no fear of such innovation, only a sense of prudence in bringing it about. An integrated market is not novel. The most recent and brilliant example of one such, excepting the European Economic Community, is in the relationship of the American states themselves. From the beginning of the federal union the member states practiced a free flow of goods and free movement of workmen from state to state under integration that was not only economic, but political. There were many special virtues contributing to the brilliant success of the United States but economic integration must be classed as one of the important ones.

Though the United States has long cherished the principle of high tariff barriers in international trade it would have none of it at home, and, thereby, showed an inconsistency. For tariff barriers restrain trade while America grew within its own borders by bringing as many citizens into the market as possible.

Disillusionment

The National Geographic Society has a reputation for remaining aloof from politics and human venality. It spends its time on global matters, communing with the earth itself. Now it has shattered precedent.

The society has made charges of an instance of conflict of interest exceeding anything uncovered in Washington for decades. It is out after the ground hog.

From time immemorial honest people have believed confidently that on February 2 each year the ground hog leaves his winter quarters and steps outside to judge the weather. He does it so people can plan. If, upon stepping outside, the sun is shining and he sees his shadow, then it means that there will be six weeks more of winter and that crops will be slim. But if the day is disagreeable and there is no sun to cast a shadow, then an early spring is in store and crops will be good.

The society says this is all bunk. The ground hog has utterly no sense of social obligation, doesn't give a hang how long winter hangs on, or how any harvest turns out, and if he has any attitude toward people, it is a low one. February 2 can come or go as far as he is concerned and he generally sleeps right through it.

This may be true. The National Geographic Society weighs its statements carefully, and is apt to lean to the side of caution. Still it must accept the responsibility for destroying one more thing we have all been living by, and depending upon. Now about all we have left is Valentine's day and that's not quite enough to anchor a stable and happy social order. The least that can be said is that the society now owes it to us to find an honest animal in place of the ground hog to signal our release from the servitude of winter.

DREW PEARSON

Conflict Of Interest Hovers Over McCone

WASHINGTON — In June, 1958, John A. McCone, the new would-be Central Intelligence chief, wrote a letter to Sherman Adams, later kicked out of government for a conflict of interest, to see whether he, McCone, might have a conflict of interest as new chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Ignoring the fact that the Goldfine charges against Adams had not made him the best man to act as judge, McCone listed the Utah Construction Company, Kaiser Engineers, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide as doing large business with the Atomic Energy Commission, and simultaneously doing business with his own privately owned shipping companies.

Significantly, two of these companies, Kaiser and Utah Construction, showed the pattern of business links McCone has kept with his old associates and war profiteers. McCone was president and a partner with Henry Kaiser and associates in running the California shipbuilding company during the war when they rolled an investment of $100,000 into an over-all profit of $44,000,000.

Later, when he was under secretary of the Air Force, McCone gave his old partner a quickie flying boxcar contract at three times the cost the Air Force was paying Fairchild. Incidentally, Senate hearings conducted by the late Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire showed that Kaiser and his subsidiaries got a total of $219,011,919 in government RFC loans; received $6,568,000,000 in government contracts and got approximately half a billion dollars in quickie tax write-offs.

☆ ☆ ☆

Kaiser has also been one of the biggest contractors with the Atomic Energy Commission including the period when Kaiser's old partner, John McCone, was AEC chairman.

The company which operates under the all-inclusive name of Utah Construction Company is also part-owned by Kaiser and actually is a big seller of uranium to the AEC through its subsidiary, Lucky Mc Uranium Corp.

Union Carbide is one of the biggest contractors with the Atomic Energy Commission. It not only sells uranium to the AEC, but operates AEC plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky. Both Union Carbide and the Kaiser interests benefited from the AEC's decision not to buy uranium from "underdeveloped countries." This obviously played into the hands of established American companies such as Union Carbide and Kaiser.

Yet McCone, before he became chairman of the AEC in 1958, admitted that his personally owned shipping line, Joshua Hendy, handled "inter-coastal and coastwise transportation of chemicals, transports products for Union Carbide, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, and others."

Dilworth-Clark In Liberal Axis

WASHINGTON — The two paladins of Philadelphia municipal reform a decade ago will ride together in statewide Democratic primaries this fall.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth has resigned his post, effective February 12, to seek the nomination for governor. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who went from city hall into the Senate, will seek a second term.

Clark apparently will have no opposition in the primary. What is in store within his party for the colorful ex-marine, Dilworth, is less clear, but he has plainly grown tired of waiting for the more conservative Democrats to grow fond of him.

Among those who have dissembled their love for the mayor and, whenever possible, also kicked him downstairs is Rep. William J. Green Jr., head of the Philadelphia Democratic organization. At this point President Kennedy becomes involved, for Green was an early supporter of his presidential bid and the eager Green hand has successfully reached for various forms of federal patronage.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Dilworth-Clark camp has not overlooked the troublesome potential of the Green influence with the White House. Knowing also the President's fondness for polls, they have had a poll taken by a trusted Kennedy poll-taker, and it is being conveyed to the administration's political arm.

While not definitive, it gives encouragement to Dilworth's argument that he can win. No other phrase equals those words in political magic when backed by credible evidence.

A quarrel with Green over the succession at city hall is a possibility. Of this, Dilworth spokesmen say only that they will not hesitate to tangle with Green if necessary.

Until now the slates for the off-year campaigns have waited upon the resolution of a bitter, year-long quarrel over congressional redistricting. Pennsylvania loses three House seats because its population gain lagged behind that of most other states.

Confronting a deadline of February 20, the state legislative redistricting committees have come up with a pattern which political writers believe will become law. Under it Green will lose one of Philadelphia's six seats, all held by Democrats, and Republican leaders have had to agree to consolidate four Republican districts into three.

☆ ☆ ☆

Democrats seem to have achieved their preference in a solution of the third lost chair, but the decision is not yet final.

Unless agreement is reached promptly, all of Pennsylvania's representatives must run at large, which neither party wants. It is abhorrent to all present members who are little known outside of their own districts and would face costly, energy-consuming statewide campaigns.

Morrison Editorial

Bellevue, Neb.

I read with interest and pride your editorial stating facts which everyone knows about Frank Morrison and his political cronies. The forceful way in which the old adage, "The truth hurts," has often been brought home to those criticizing your stand makes it obvious that Morrison himself is speaking.

For myself, I applaud the fearless, vigorous editor of The Star who has exposed the politics of the governor and who by his frank and sound opinions stands to improve the quality of the public service.

OLD DEMOCRAT

Omaha, Neb.

It should be obvious to everyone that Gov. Morrison is inspiring letters to the editor to stifle honest and forthright criticism of his administration. The reason for this is clear. Your editorial exposed for the first time the gross violation of the public trust, deliberately perpetrated on the public by the governor to insure his re-election.

Morrison proclaimed, with great moral righteousness, an edict that anyone officially connected with organized politics could not conduct business with state agencies. Yet his campaign manager, Jim Exon, was listed on his inaugural ball program as personnel advisor and he has profited from contracts awarded him by the purchasing department.

F. HAZARD

Waverly, Neb.

It would be difficult to imagine that a reputable newspaper could stoop to such an all-time low as you have recently done. I can't imagine the apparent stupidity that would allow you to write such a dastardly editorial only to be followed by constant destructive criticism in each day's edition.

I feel confident that even the governor would admit he needs constructive help. After all, what human being doesn't? The thing that is so hard to understand is why, after all these years, you begin to open your eyes to the fault of an administration that is trying so desperately to do everything that is good for Nebraska and its people. It is a rare occasion when you point out the good that the governor has done. The face of Nebraska has been completely lifted and people of intelligence and respect admit it. If you really want to help, why not point out the many things that have been done and are in the process of being done? Certainly neither Frank Morrison nor any other governor could possibly complete a program at the end of one year. Why do you begin to discredit him when he is only halfway on the road to what has been a new lift, a new look, a new attitude for the state?

I am proud to sign my name and proud to be a booster of all the things the governor is trying to do for me, my family and for you and your family.

JAMES ANDERSON

Brewster, Neb.

I am pleased to note that numerous readers have seen fit to remind you of the "all-time low" standard to which you have reduced the editorial page of The Star. You have used language far beneath the dignity of your position.

If it is your desire to cripple the record of the governor or to sabotage the Democratic party by your disparaging editorial, why don't you join the wrecking crew on the other side of the fence where you rightfully belong?

Governor Morrison has worked tirelessly and ceaselessly to put this state in the status, in numerous ways, where it rightfully belongs. No governor has ever done more and many of his predecessors have done less. Maybe he has unintentionally made errors, but those who make no errors never make anything. He is entitled to have his errors measured against his accomplishments.

I am pleased to note that, to date, the governor has not prostrated the dignity of his office enough to reply to your unwarranted diatribe.

H. C. COX

Omaha, Neb.

My compliments on a thoughtful and timely editorial. Not only has the approach to state purchasing been one of shabby politics, but the same is true of every other program advanced by the governor's administration.

The approach to tourist promotion is nothing but a convenient and obviously phony political gimmick devised by Morrison to promote himself for re-election and to excuse himself for not tackling a single controversial issue or significant problem in the last two years. Anyone in his right mind would promote tourist trade, but to make it an issue is a case of political tactics.

MRS. J. A.

Lincoln, Neb.

This is directed to Mrs. Francis V. Robinson, Mrs. J. W. Staton and the citizens of Lincoln. I, like many other young citizens of the United States, find it very difficult to understand the logic of many adults. We have been taught the American way of life in our finest schools, which states that we are the proud owners of many freedoms. Among them we find one quickly forgotten when something goes against our personal way of thinking. It is one that we may all be proud of — freedom of the press. This is a very important gift from our forebears — a gift that boys have given their lives for in wars ever since our Constitution was first written.

The human mind is endowed with memory, but sometimes our personal feelings show us only the wrongdoings of others. What I am trying to say is, the press will and does print two sides of each story. Looking back, we will find many good articles on our Nebraska governor. He is a good man but he is also human and humans are not without personal error.

I will say neither pro nor con to my feelings on our governor's actions or ideas but I will in every manner uphold the press. May it always have the freedom to print both sides to all issues, no matter what they may be.

Common Market

Lincoln, Neb.

The first ordinance of the European Common Market became effective Jan. 1. This ordinance forbids all market agreements within the borders of the Market that might be, or are detrimental to the best interest of said Market. It is well, accordingly, that the President in his message to the Congress emphasized the need for a closer alliance with the nations composing the Common Market. There is little doubt that Britain will join the Market very shortly. When this happens, the United States will be faced with the very practical problem of competing with the markets within this new economic structure.

It will be necessary for Congress to give the President rather broad powers in fixing reciprocal tariffs for trade in the Common Market. Otherwise we could well be accused of being imperialistic, not alone by the communists, but by members of the Common Market.

Many of the nations of freedom-loving people are not members of the Common Market. Yet they should not be overlooked for they are interested in maintaining their independence as free peoples. These nations, some large, some small, some young, some old, are in many instances so located geographically that they know not when, as was the case with Tibet, they will be overrun by the communists.

So in addition to the Common Market, I believe as do many others that the world needs a unifying framework of all the free nations, whether they be members of the Common Market or not.

Mutual Respect

Lincoln, Neb.

In two articles in the Jan. 13 Star, the point was stressed of the astonishment of visiting notables at the "relaxed" and "unrestrained familiarity" of students with their teachers and children with their parents. In each case the writer seemingly had no feeling that anything was wrong. He just thought the visitors' attitudes "odd."

How long has it been since anyone has heard a child answer a question with a "yes, sir," or a "no, sir"? The truth of the matter is, this laxity in manners goes hand in hand with relaxing morals and a lessening of respect for dignity and authority until we are becoming a nation of mental and moral "slobs."

It is not just our children; they are only following the example of their parents. We all seem to forget this when we are deploring juvenile delinquency. Of course, the kids add a few refinements of their own, but the underlying cause of delinquency is lack of training and teaching in the basic elements of truth, honor and respect for other people's rights and property.

There is so much bridge to play, TV to watch and "The Twist" to learn, not to mention committee meetings and bazaars to raise money for the betterment and education of heathen children in far-flung corners of the world. Meanwhile little Johnnie and Susie come home from school to an empty and unsupervised house, with a choice of a cold snack or a note telling them to run down to the corner. Mother, with the righteous glow of a do-gooder, rushes home barely in time to thaw a glutinous glob of something she calls dinner. By this time, the kids are too full to eat and take off for parts unknown. They come home when the fancy strikes them, to go to bed unkissed and, it must seem to them, unloved.

Is it then any wonder that they become intolerant of restraint from any other source, when they have never known the restraint of love and respect? The respect to be effective must be mutual.

If anyone suggested to these parents that they didn't love their children, they would be furious, pointing out that they are the best dressed in their school, have the most expensive wrist-watches, fur coats, their own cars. This is love? How many actually know where their children go, with whom and to do what?

I don't know what the remedy is. I don't know the way back or even if there is a way back for most of us. But one thing I know for sure. The change must be in the parent before it can be communicated to the child!

No wonder the visitors from other lands are "astonished." Many of us here at home are, too.

Grenades, Bullets, Knives Take Heavy Toll In Algerian Fighting

Algiers (AP)—Grenades, bullets and knives killed nearly 30 more persons in Algeria Tuesday while top officials studied ways of coping with rising insecurity and ruin.

Police rushed from one scene of violence to another. The French minister of Algerian affairs, Louis Joxe, sped back to Paris to inform President Charles de Gaulle of the rising disorder.

One possibility was that a state of siege might be clamped on the largest cities to deal with the terrorism that has reached new peaks since de Gaulle's year-end speech. In it de Gaulle announced plans to withdraw the bulk of French troops from this North African territory whose future is bloodily contested by the European settlers and the Algerians.

Oran had the highest casualties of the day. Unofficial figures showed 15 men and boys were killed before the 11 p.m. curfew.

In Algiers, at least 11 were reported dead. Four victims were Moslem terrorists mowed down by police forces on whom they opened fire, authorities said.

Other incidents were reported in smaller cities.

Meanwhile, the European Secret Army Organization took its propaganda campaign to the Moslem population in a clandestine broadcast heard in Bone. The Arabic-speaking announcer said:

Understand

"You must understand that we are in this country and we will never leave."

"Moslems," he continued, "we are, both of us, in the same boat. The storm is raging. We will all be saved or we will all perish together."

In Paris, the Interior Ministry announced that 33 right-wing secret army activists had been jailed and 13 placed in internment camps during the first two weeks of January.

A state of siege on Algeria's most explosive cities, Algiers and Oran, would be only a technicality as both cities have been living on a virtual wartime footing for years. But it might have a psychological effect and involve severe curtailment of the movement of persons and vehicles.

Officials said the situation is more serious than in early 1957, when Moslem terrorist attacks were at their peak, reaching 30 a day in Algiers alone.

Now, however, authorities have to fight against both Moslems and European underground movements.

Lilttle To Head Monument Men

The Monument Builders of Nebraska, meeting in Lincoln Tuesday, elected David Little of Fremont as president.

Richard Tomandl of Lincoln was chosen vice president and Warren Worley, secretary-treasurer.

The two-day convention drew more than 50 members and visitors.

Archie Green of Chicago, national executive vice president, visited the meeting.

The group's 1963 convention is set January 14 and 15 in Grand Island.

'OPERATION LONG THRUST II' PUTS U.S. TROOPS IN EUROPE

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—A huge jet transport flew a full load of U.S. troops from the U.S. West Coast to Europe in little more than 10 hours Tuesday in the opening phase of "Operation Long Thrust II."

The operation to airlift 6,000 men from McChord, Wash. Airbase to Rhein-Main Base in Germany is widely viewed as a major test of how U.S. forces can be rushed overseas in an emergency.

The exercise was given added weight in the light of the explosive Berlin crisis.

It involves 3 reinforced battle groups of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The silvery transport jet that landed here brought the first elements of the division headquarters unit, 18 officers and 54 men. Lt. Col. James Grimsley, 40, of Florence, S.C., division operations officer, led the group.

They were met by Gen. Charles D. Palmer, deputy commander in chief of the U.S. European Command in Paris.

Col. Jacques Pueche, representing French General Pierre Jacquaut, commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Central Europe, also was on hand for the arrival ceremonies.

The troops' exercise in Europe — on maneuver grounds at Hohenfels near the Czechoslovak Iron Curtain border — is being held within the NATO framework.

German Army and Air Force officials watched the troops debark from the giant C135 jet transport after its nonstop flight via Greenland to Europe.

Another jet flight, carrying 80 officers and men of the 1st Battle Group, 22nd Infantry, arrived later Tuesday.

Battle groups being flown over are the 1st Battle Group, 22nd Infantry, the 2nd, 39th Infantry and the 2nd, 47th Infantry.

The division commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Train, is due at Rhein-Main Wednesday when the big airlift is expected to swing into full gear with the arrival of 14 planeloads of troops.

Bread being the staff of life and all that, it is good news to report that a new bread is coming on the market.

This bread is so full of vigor and health, vitamins and super-power you could drop it in your gas tank and climb hills faster.

This is what the bakers hope you will do—climb hills faster, I mean. Only by foot after eating this super-energy bread.

☆ ☆ ☆

The poets of this and yesteryear were so entranced with bread they made 67 poems about it.

If you want a comparison, poets have written two poems to beaver hats.

They have written 14 to beer.

The most famous poet (on bread) was Omar Khayyam, the Persian.

"A book of verses underneath the bough,
"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou."

When you are a poet and putting bread into the same poem with wine and thou, you are thinking about bread.

I mean, Omar didn't need to throw bread in just for the rhyme.

☆ ☆ ☆

Another famous poet was George Martin Lane. He wrote of the difficulty of getting bread in a restaurant.

"The waiter he to him doth call,
"And gently whispers — 'One Fish-ball.'
"The waiter roars it through the hall,
"The guests they start at 'One Fish-ball!'
"The guest then says, quite ill at ease,
"'A piece of bread, sir, if you please.'
"The waiter roars it through the hall:
"'We don't give bread with one Fish-ball!'"

☆ ☆

This poem was so important that it was later translated into Italian and made into an operetta, 'Il Pescaballo."

☆ ☆ ☆

The newer and better bread —("energy without fat") will make you run up hills like a deer.

It will not give you a sag over the belt or a bulge over the pistol pocket.

That is what the bakers say. And that is what I believe—because I like to believe nice things like that.

I don't have much diet trouble. But I don't want to bulge and sag either. I don't care a whole lot whether I run uphill like a deer. I would just as soon take a taxi.

☆ ☆ ☆

The most famous remark I find about bread was made by Marie Antoinette, the French queen.

"If the people have no bread," said Marie, "let them eat cake."

This remark has come down to us in history. And millions of children have learned this is no way for a queen to act.

When I was a child, it seemed to me better to eat bread, too."

People were always saying: "Eat the crusts on your bread, too."

Cake has no crust.

It just has icing.

I used to pull it off the top of the cake and run uphill like a deer.

Those were the good old days.

More People Over 65 Now In Nebraska

By the Associated Press

The proportion of young people has in Nebraska grown smaller and the proportion of people over 65 has grown larger in the last decade, a comparison of census reports showed Tuesday.

In 1960 the median age of Nebraskans was 30.2 years, compared with a median age of 31 a decade ago.

The population showed 265,575 persons between 15 and 29 in Nebraska in 1960, compared with 295,277 of that age group 10 years ago. Persons in the 65-and-over bracket numbered 161,090 in 1960 compared with 130,379 in 1950.

Percentagewise the 1960 returns showed 11.4% of the population over 65 and 18.8% between 15 and 29 in 1960, but 9.9% over 65 and 22.3% between 15 and 29 in 1950.

Two Hepatitis Cases In Lancaster County

Two hepatitis cases were reported in Lancaster County during the past week, the Communicable Disease Division of the State Department of Health reported Tuesday.

The cases were the first reported in 1962. A total of 30 cases had occurred in the same period in 1961.

Two new diphtheria cases were also reported in Douglas County over the period.

Wages Stay Carriers

London (UPI) — A letter to the editor of the Evening News had the following complaint about the "go slow" tactics of Britain's postal employes in protest against the government's wage policy: A letter traveling 12,000 miles from New Zealand to London reached its destination in 4 days, the same time it took another letter to go the 34 miles from Tunbridge Wells to London.

W. German Industry Here?

By WOODY HOWE
Star Staff Writer

A Volkswagen factory in Nebraska?

Not likely. But chances other West German industries might start business in this state are not so remote as you might think.

At least a visiting West German economist thinks not.

Dr. Eric E. Bendheim spent Monday and Tuesday consulting with Gov. Frank Morrison, Nebraska Resources Divisions and University of Nebraska officials, and civic leaders. He was investigating economic conditions with a view toward setting up joint German-American industries here.

Dr. Bendheim was one of the negotiators who helped work out the U.S.-European Common Market agreement. When the mutual tariff reduction was announced, he was in Lincoln.

'Best Weapon'

He called it the "best weapon" available to fight the cold war.

"It opens a new era in trading among countries of the free world — a community of more than 400 million people. The conclusion of the agreement in Brussels will help President Kennedy very much" in getting across-the-board tariff-cutting powers from Congress.

How would German industry be feasible here, what with higher wage scales?

"While you have a labor surplus, we must import 6,000 foreign laborers. Still, we have 900,000 jobs open."

Dr. Bendheim said German industry here would cater to the U.S. market exclusively, and "transportation costs and import duty would fall away; this would compensate for higher labor costs."

Major German Plants

In 1959 he began examining German industrial prospects here. Since then major German plans have sprung up in North Carolina, Kentucky and Missouri.

The Bonn official made it clear American manufacturers' rights would not be invaded — "there's no question of this at all. Germans would provide some capital, a manager and a few technicians," he said, but "an American-German partnership would be the best solution."

What does Nebraska offer a German businessman?

"What I like most in Nebraska re the people — this is the most important asset you've got and one of the attractions for foreign industry."

Tourists, Too

Dr. Bendheim said his talk with the Governor dealt with tourism, too.

"If you want to attract tourists from West Europe, you've got to have something special," he said he told the governor. Nebraska has that something special in Indian reservations and shrines, he noted.

Apparently nothing firm evolved from this exploratory visit. David Osterhout, chief of the resources division, said it would be 6 months or a year before any firm commitments were made — if German industrialists should desire to establish operations here.

Three Methodist Church senior citizen homes are already operating in Nebraska. They are Holdrege Memorial Home, Sarah Anne Hester Memorial Home at Benkelman, and the Crowell Memorial Home in Blair.

A site for the Lincoln building has not been considered, Dr. Bessire said, but the committee wants it near the church.

Uni Place Senior Housing Need Under Church Study

A committee at First Methodist Church is studying the need and feasibility of an apartment building for senior-age residents in University Place.

The 10-member group is headed by Dr. Bert A. Bessire, retired Methodist minister, who explained:

"We are trying to find out whether there are people among the members of our church and in the area who would like to have such a place.

"If interest is shown, we have in mind an apartment building accommodating 100 senior-age men and women. The building would be divided into one and two-room apartments, with central dining facilities for those who desire them."

Federal Help

Dr. Bessire said his committee is thinking in terms of a building similar to the Omaha Education Association apartment residence where 90% of the financing was handled by a federal agency. Indebtedness to the agency would be paid off through rentals.

Financing could be obtained through the Federal Housing Administration, the method being used by the proposed Clark Jeary Memorial Home, Pioneer Apartments, and Gateway Manor apartments—senior-citizen projects in Lincoln.

According to Dr. Bessire, the apartments are in the discussion stage now, but could probably rent at a rate similar to the Omaha building's $70 monthly.

The building would not be limited to First Methodist members, the committee chairman added.

'Not Exclusive'

"We were thinking especially, but not exclusively, in terms of a building that would provide housing for the senior members of our congregation."

Youthful Arsonist Vanishes

Chicago (AP) — Police said a 13-year-old boy disappeared Tuesday while they were checking a statement attributed to him that he set our Lady of Angels School fire that killed 95 persons in 1958.

The Chicago Tribune said the boy made the statement to John E. Reid, who runs a "lie detector" service for public as well as private clients. He told Reid he hated school and liked to hear the sound of fire engines, the Tribune said.

Being Checked

Sgt. Drew Brown. an expert of the Chicago police bomb and arson squad who has been on the investigation since the fire Dec.. 1, 1958, said the statement is being checked point by point.

Police had planned to question the boy again Tuesday. But Capt. Chris T. Rooney of the Cicero police said that when he went to the boy's home in Cicero, a suburb, the parents told him they did not know where their son is.

Rooney said he then ordered a police search for the boy.

The police captain said that when he called at the boy's home two days ago the family told him the boy was ill. Monday, he added, he was told the boy was unavailable.

The boy has not been charged and his name was withheld.

The Tribune said a copyright story that the boy related in his statement that he tossed lighted matches into a cardboard waste barrel near a stairwell in the basement of the west side school.

$10,000 Budget At St. John's Congregational

A budget of $10,000 was approved at the annual meeting of St. John's Congregational Church.

WARREN'S SON TO JOIN DEMOS

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Earl Warren, Jr., son of the Chief Justice of the United States, said Tuesday he plans to change his political registration from Republican to Democrat.

"I think that with my political philosphy I will be more comfortable in the Democratic Party than in the Republican Party," Warren told the Sacramento Bee.

Warren said he plans to make the change on Jan. 31, his 32nd birthday.

Blasts Rock Churches In Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala. (AP) — Explosions occurred at 3 Negro churches in Birmingham Tuesday night.

No injuries were reported.

One explosion occurred at St. Luke's African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church. Most windows were knocked out on the first floor of one side of the building.

Fire Marshal A. Rosenfeld said the explosion was dynamite. It blew a hole about 18 inches across and a foot deep in the sidewalk at the foundation.

At the New Bethel Baptist Church, an explosion occurred at the curb about 15 feet from the building proper. Slight damage to the front of the church resulted. Windows in two houses across the street were broken.

The other explosion was at a church in North Birmingham. No details were available.

1961 'Excellent' Year For First Continental

An excellent business year in 1961 was announced for First Continental Bank and Trust Company at the annual stockholders meeting Tuesday.

Officers and directors of the bank were all re-elected.

Burnham Yates, president, told stockholders that loan demand was strong in 1961 and attributed the trend to a strong and growing economy in Nebraska.

Earnings were $865,000 plus an additional $21,000 earned by First Continental Building Corp., a subsidiary.

Dividends of $400,000 were paid stockholders, and year-end capital funds stood at $10,300,000.

$7 Million Increase

Deposits averaged $109,000,000 during 1961, a gain of $7,000,000. Increased interest rates on savings certificates were expected to increase deposits in 1962.

Stockholders were shown an architect's sketch of the new bank addition (former Lincoln Theater), and told that the first floor of the remodeled building will house the installment loan department; commercial loan and correspondent banking departments will occupy the second floor and the trust department, the 3rd floor. A 4th floor will be available for expansion.

Re-elected directors were:

George P. Abel, Philip M. Aitken, H. J. Amen, C. Wheaton Battey, Adna A. Dobson, E. J. Faulkner, J. John Grainger, A. W. Griffin, E. U. Guenzel, George W. Holmes, Richard O. Joyce, John F. Hi-Plains Figures For Operational Costs Backed Up

North Platte (UPI)—The firm which manufactures the small planes Hi-Plains Airways wants to use on passenger routes across the plains states Tuesday backed up Hi-Plains' figures for operational costs on the proposed routes.

Aero-Commander said the operating costs outlined by Hi-Plains in a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing were lower than costs estimated by Central Airlines for operating the same planes because Hi-Plains plans to use less equipment and non-union pilots.

The Aero-Commander testimony came before CAB examiner Richard A. Walsh adjourned the hearing until 11 a.m. Thursday when the CAB's bureau of economic regulations will present its testimony.

Aero-Commander witnesses said the chief reason it would cost Central more to operate the 6-passenger planes on its proposed routes is that Central plans to use expensive radios and instruments.

OPPD Seeks New Trial In Fremont Case

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) said Tuesday it has moved for a new trial in the case of the Dawson County Feed Products Company at Fremont.

The Dawson County firm obtained a writ of mandamus in District Court last week which requires OPPD to serve the firm at a mill now being constructed at the edge of Fremont. The city objected that if a customer close to Fremont and to OPPD lines can compel OPPD to provide service, Fremont stands to lose that portion of its load delivered outside the city limits.

The League of Nebraska Municipalities, which entered the case as a friend of the court, contended the writ is contrary to legislative policy.

In its motion Tuesday the OPPD asked the court to vacate the decision and grant a new trial on the basis that the decision is not sustained by sufficient evidence and is contrary to law.

In the event the motion is denied, the OPPD then would be free to appeal the case to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

This case is considered by power experts to have extreme signficiance because of its effect on the fixing of service boundaries, one of the most perplexing and controversial problems in the Nebraska power picture at present.

What Do Doctors Do When They Suffer HEADACHE PAIN?

New York, N.Y.— Most doctors live under constant nervous tension, pressure and mental strain. It's not surprising they, too, often suffer from miserable headaches. But now — it can be revealed what doctors, themselves, take to relieve headache pain.

A survey shows many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, three out of four doctors recommend this same type of relief to their patients.

Anacin Tablets are stronger yet safer. They give fast, long-lasting and — more complete relief from tense, nervous headaches than aspirin or aspirin with buffering. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever. But Anacin is different. Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients recognized for their effectiveness by the highest medical authorities. Anacin gives extra medication that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension, pressure and depression.

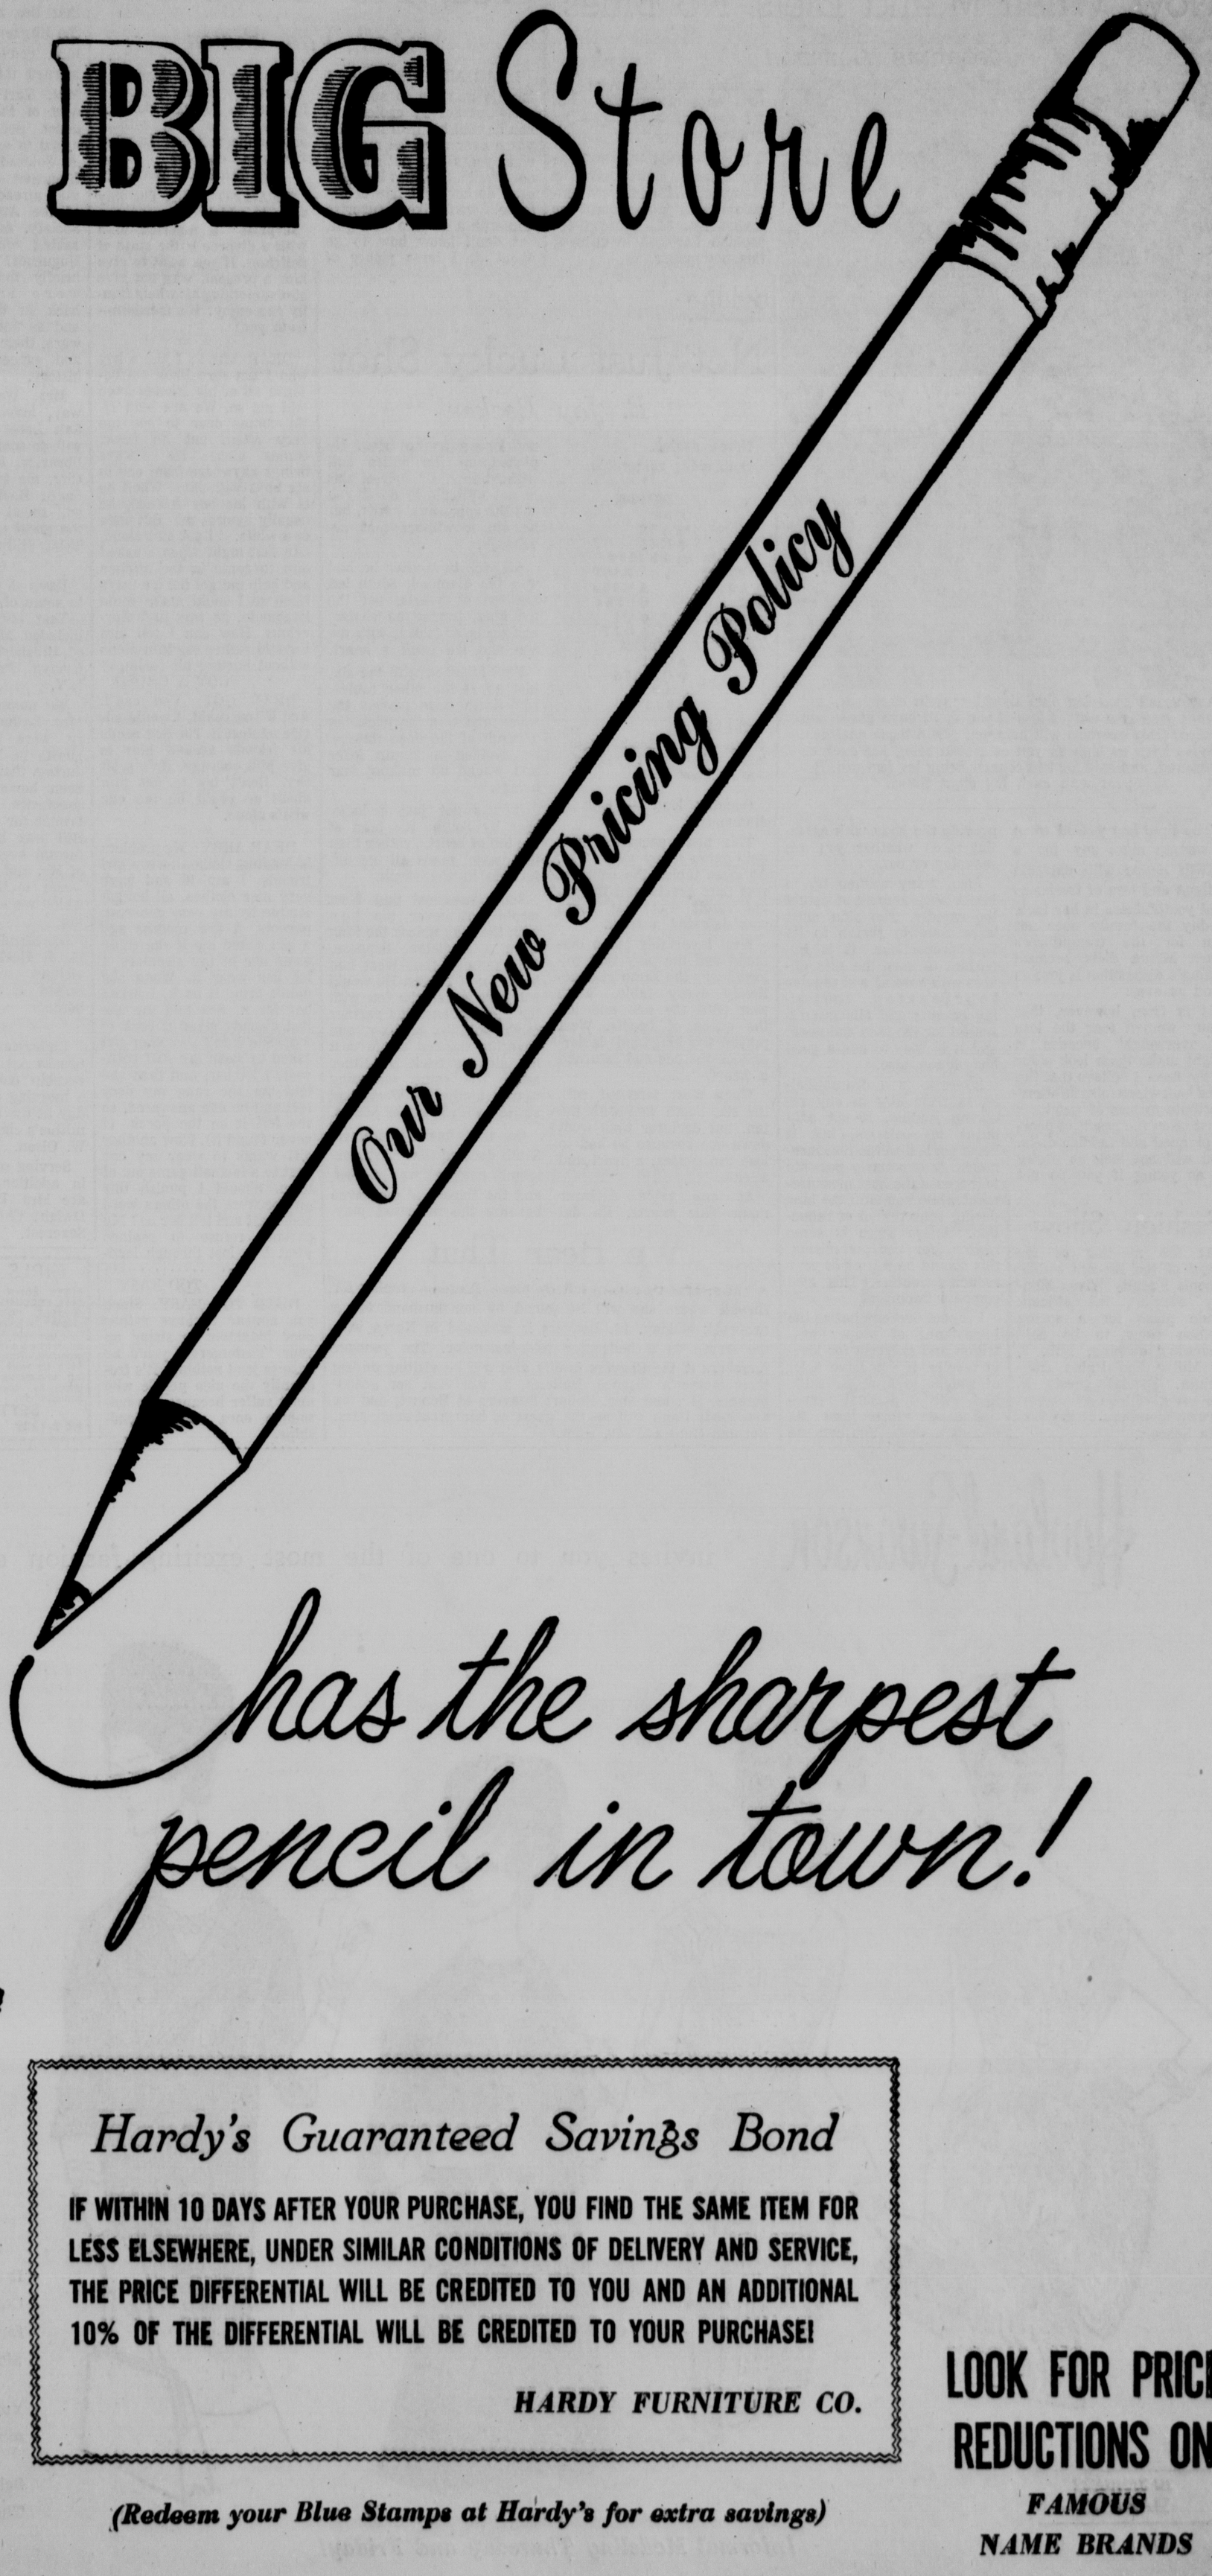

After taking Anacin — pain goes in minutes! The sufferer 'feels great' again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness — Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. Anacin may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach.

See if the extra medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin for fast, long-lasting, more complete pain-relief.

Why Grow Old?

Now, When Mama Diets, No Blues

Josephine Lowman

Any sound reducing plan should contain exercises, and what good is a weight loss if you don't have grace and poise? This exercise will help you attain these qualities. Raise knee as high as you can, then bring leg back as pictured, and hold for two counts. Bring leg forward. Repeat with each leg eight times.

The time has passed when a woman must pay for a girlish figure with extreme fatigue and loss of freshness and youthfulness in her face. Today the family does not run for the tranquilizers when Mama diets because Mama's disposition is just as good as ever.

It is true, however, that many women fear the loss of overweight because it might make them look older in the face. I believe that the tired look which folks so often attribute to loss of weight is most often the result of poorly planned and faddish diets. You will not look as pretty or as young if you do not provide the body with essential foods whether you are reducing or not.

Also, many women try to lose a large amount of weight too rapidly. The skin must have time to thrink to its new proportions. It is important to keep the skin pliable with careful and regular lubrication. Lubricating creams and oils are essential for the face and neck, and it is wise to use a good body lotion, also.

Exercise is a dramatically valuable ally in any reducing routine. It not only burns up calories, but it helps normalize the measurements. It is entirely possible to increase the bust measurement while you slim the hips during your period of reduction. Unless there is some reason for not exercising, this should be a part of your reducing routine. This also combats flabbiness.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of proper nutrition and exercise for lovely results. If you have a lot of weight to lose, be satisfied with a gradual reduction of no more than 2½ pounds a week. You can use a more rapid plan for the first encouraging start, but for the long haul, take it gradually.

If you would like to have my calorie chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Free, Yes--From You

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The man I love is married to someone else—but not by choice. He has begged his wife for a divorce ever since he met me eight years ago, but she will not give in. She uses her children as her first line of defense. I would like to surprise him with a divorce as a gift, but don't know how to go about it. I have plenty of money for the lawyer, and am willing to pay whatever it costs to get this done in another state fast, without any public notices. In what state can I do this?

NO TIME TO WASTE

DEAR NO TIME: The only state in which a woman can "surprise" a married man with a divorce is the state of delirium. If you want to give him a present, why not give him something his whole family can enjoy? His freedom—from you!

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I like a boy who I am sure likes me because all of his friends have told me so. We are both 15. He comes over to see me very often, but he never comes alone. He always brings anywhere from one to six boys with him. When he is with his boy friends, he usually ignores me. But once in a while, if I get him alone, like last night when I asked him to come in the kitchen and help me get the ice trays loose so I could make some lemonade, he was just marvelous. How can I tell him I would rather see him alone without hurting his feelings?

GOT A CRUSH

DEAR GOT: You can't. And if you could, I would advise against it. The boy needs his friends around him to give him courage. He's a bit shy. Don't try to get him alone or you'll be the one who's alone.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My problem is lending clothes to my girl friends. I am 16 and have very nice clothes, all bought for me by my very generous parents. A few months ago a girl asked me if she could wear one of my sweaters. I let her wear it. When she didn't bring it back, I asked her for it. She told me she had already given it back to me. (She didn't.) Another girl asked to wear my stiff petticoat. I let her, and then she told me she rang my door bell and no one answered, so she left it on the porch. (I never found it). Now another girl wants to wear my car coat to a football game out of town. Should I punish this girl because the others were dishonest and tell her no? My parents refuse to replace what I've lost through lending.

TOO EASY

DEAR TOO EASY: Since you appear to have rather poor judgment in sizing up your "customers," you'd be wise to lend nothing. It's frequently the nice people who must suffer because the not-so-nice ones abuse friendships.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

This hand occurred in a pair game many years ago. At most tables the contract was four hearts and the usual result was that South was defeated a trick.

West invariably led a diamond and the play that followed was the same at practically every table. South won with the ace and led the queen of hearts. West played the king and declarer took the ace and returned a heart.

When East followed with the six, South won with the ten, but declarer then went down one because he had to lose two spades, a heart and a club.

At one table declarer made four hearts. He did not lose a trump trick. He picked up the entire suit without loss. Of course, this is not difficult to do if you see the opponents' cards, but he did it without that arvantage.

At trick two, after he had won the diamond, South led the ten of hearts, not the the king, having no choice, and declarer took it with the ace and led back a heart.

East followed with the six, just as at the other tables, but South now played the seven and won the trick. As a result of the deep finesse, he avoided a trump loser and wound up making four hearts.

It was not just a lucky shot by South. His lead of the ten of hearts, rather than the queen, made all the difference in the result.

South reasoned that West would not cover the ten with the king unless the king were a singleton. Suppose, for example, that West had held K-x of hearts. He would not dare cover the ten with the king because his partner might hold J-x or J-x-x, and covering the ten would cost his side a trick in either case. The same reasoning would apply if West had started with K-x-x of hearts.

On this basis, therefore, South decided that East's original holding was 9-8-6-4, and the finesse of the seven became the indicated play.

Ballerie, 2, will visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Beavers at Bennet, and six month-old Dana will be the guest of her great-aunt, Mrs. Norman Hunt and Mr. Hunt.

AROUND TOWN

There's a bit of this and that this morning — Even the Huguenots enter the picture, conversation-wise. We learned this morning that Mrs. Earl Weidman, president of the Nebraska Huguenot Society, has been asked to establish a chapter in Colorado. The Nebraska Huguenot Society, as you may already know, is a part of the American Huguenot Society. And should you be asking yourself "what is a Huguenot?" we'll mention briefly that the Huguenots were French protestants back in the 17th Century, and as such had their civil wars, their periods of peace, and exceedingly interesting history.

Mrs. Weidman, by the way, leaves on Friday for Salt Lake City where she will do some research at the libraries. From Salt Lake City, the traveler will go to Santa Barbara where she will spend several weeks as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Tyler Stillwell.

Have a postscript to add to some of yesterday's news —That portion of it which included Mrs. Ruth Latham of Hillsboro, Ill.. and Miss Evelyn Perry of Albany, N.Y.

We mentioned that both Mrs. Latham and Miss Perry were Friday-to-Tuesday guests in Lincoln, and that during their stay they had been honored at numerous courtesies. There was a brunch for which Mrs. Ralph Hill was hostess — an informal evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Held —and a third courtesy of which we learned this morning.

On Monday morning Mrs. E. J. Hested honored the visitors when she entertained at a coffee at her home.

Understand that the Nebraska Art Association membership committee met for a morning coffee last Thursday at the home of the committee's chairman, Mrs. Carl W. Olson.

Serving on the committee, in addition to Mrs. Olson, are Mrs. David Dow, Mrs. Dwight Cherry, Mrs. J. R. Seacrest, Mrs. Albert Speier, Mrs. John H. Ames, Mrs. Robert Ammon, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. Frank Boehmer, Mrs. Thomas C. Woods, Mrs. A. Bromley Sheldon of Lexington; Mrs. Richard Garlinghouse, Mrs. Curtis D. Kimball, Mrs. Bradford Cook, and Mrs. Kenneth McCaw.

The Art Association members, those who are interested in taking one of the tours — European and Scandinavian — planned by the association for the summer, will be dining at the University Club this evening to discuss tour plans. We hear that there are to be movies of Europe and Scandinavia — and a skit by members who were on last summer's tour.

Fun News In Suburbia

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Wednesday morning — the week is half gone — and just when we thought that we had scraped the barrel of news completely bare and clean we discovered guests, birthday parties, residents moving from this area, new babies, and— —

Arriving from warm and sunny San Diego, Calif., on Friday, Jan. 19, will be Mrs. Elsie May and her daughter Mrs. Bert Bolam. Needless to say, when they announced their visit via telephone, the first question was "And just how cold is it, really?" Well, despite the assurance that the weather was as cold as California papers reported, they decided to don their winter coats and visit. They will be the houseguests of Mrs. May's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Sieckmann.

One of the highlights of the visit in Nebraska for the California residents will be a week end in Ohiowa, where they will be present for the Golden Wedding anniversary celebration of Mrs. Sieckmann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Schroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Sieckmann, their daughters, Vicky and Jane, and their guests will leave Lincoln early Saturday morning, Jan. 20, for Ohiowa, where they will be the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Schroll. They plan to return to Lincoln late Sunday or early Monday.

Mrs. May and Mrs. Bolam will continue their visit in Lincoln for the next week before boarding their plane for San Diego and warm sunshine—without wind.

COTNER TERRACE

The houseguest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Sheaff last week end was Mrs. Sheaff's father, Kenneth Small of Cozad. Mr. Small arrived in Lincoln last Thursday, Jan. 11, and returned home on Monday, Jan. 15.

Speaking of new residents, we understand that there are several rather young newcomers to Cotner Terrace. Arriving Monday, Jan. 8, at Providence Hospital was a young lass by the name of Rebecca Ruth Westling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Westling. "Becky" arrived home on Friday, Jan. 12, to make the acquaintance of her big sister, LeAnn, who will be two in February.

Miss Becky's maternal grandmother is Mrs. Gustave Griess of Sutton, and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Westling.

Joining the younger portion of Lincoln's population on Wednesday, Jan. 10, was Brett Paul Laursen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laursen, who arrived at Bryan Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Laursen brought her son home on Tuesday, Jan. 16, to meet his grandmothers who have been awaiting his arrival.

Mrs. Bina Laursen of Ord, his paternal grandmother, arrived in Lincoln right after the holidays. Coming from Bend, Ore., on Monday, Jan. 15, was his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Warren Thompson. Grandfather Thompson had to postpone his visit to see his first grandchild for a while, but Grandmother Thompson makes an excellent emissary meanwhile. She will be in Lincoln several weeks before returning to the West Coast.

We have word that there are several houses in Cotner Terrace sitting forlornly — and temporarily — without families. In other words, some Cotner Terrace residents have moved.

And numbered among these residents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Fisher and their children, Sherryl, Warren, Candace, and Richard. Their Cotner Terrace address was 3434 No. 69th, but they are now residing at 7431 Starr. Sherryl, 12, attends Robin Mickle School, and Warren, 11, Candace, 10, and Richard, 9, all attend Pershing School, but with the beginning of second semester will transfer to Meadow Lane School.

Also leaving their Cotner Terrace home are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Walker who resided at 6907 Colfax. Their new address is 1170 Nelson. Mr. and Mrs. Walker moved on Saturday, Jan. 13.

Leaving the change of address department, we hear that next Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, will find a group of friends assembled at the home of Mrs. George Riggs, all very intent on one purpose — running up the highest score in pinochle. Among the group will be Mrs. John Zeller, Mrs. William Cosgrove, Mrs. Henry Willemsen, Mrs. Elmer Lehecka, Mrs. James Wenzel, Mrs. Joseph Houfek, and Mrs. Everett Walker.

Also in the line of parties we found that one young birthday party. It seems that the flu virus caught Luanne Neutzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Neutzman, who was nine last Sunday, Jan. 14, and had planned a party for the day before, Saturday.

However, she still can look forward to the celebration as the party will be held this Saturday, Jan. 20. Arriving at Luanne's home at 2:00 for an afternoon of fun will be Kim Burger, Beverly Dean, Beverly Somerheiser, Sherri Eirich, Cheryl Leonhardt, Janet Sabalka, Pam Burnham, Debbie Murrell, Graesser, Bobette Lehl, Kay Hartley, and Cindy Hense.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

In Pershing Heights, we learned that the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit V. Tyler, Jr., were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Schlegel, neighbors of the Tylers. And, oh yes, the Schlegels son, Alan, thoroughly enjoyed his day spent with the young Tylers, Gerry, David, John, Steven, and Mark.

Organizations To Meet

The late weeks of January bring a renewal of activity for women's organizations in the city, many of which are beginning preparations for spring conventions.

Gathering Thursday evening for the annual business meeting and election of officers will be the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, which will begin the evening with a 6:30 o'clock dinner at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Members of the organization's Horizon Club will assist with the dinner, and a program will be presented by representatives of the three Camp Fire districts in the city. Mrs. Robert Longman's group in District I will sing the blessing; a candlelight service will be given by Mrs. Quentin Quay's group from District II; and Mrs. Orval Davidson's group from District II will present a skit.

Mrs. Herbert M. Potter, Jr., council president, will preside at the business meeting during which staff reports will be made by Mrs. Ray M. Knapp, executive director. Training awards to leaders will be presented by Mrs. Elton Berck, training chairman, and national awards will be made by Mrs. James H. Ager. Mrs. Herbert M. Casey, past president of the council, will present local awards and will install the new council officers.

Republican women will have the opportunity of hearing an address by Mrs. J. B. Parks of Pueblo, Colo., president of the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, on Tuesday, Jan. 23, when the Lancaster County Republican Women will entertain at luncheon at the YWCA.

Mrs. Parks, who will be introduced by Mrs. E. E. Thoreson of Lincoln, state federation president, directs the activities of more than a half million members in 4,000 Republican Women's Clubs in the nation.

Luncheon reservations may be made with Miss Bessie Watkins, 432-2493, by Sunday, Jan. 21.

Members of the Zonta Club of Lincoln will honor the late Amelia Earhart, noted flyer and member of the organization, at their January meeting next Monday evening when the club's guest speaker will be James Sandstedt, state aeronautical director.

A 6 o'clock dinner at the YWCA will precede the program.

As a memorial to Miss Earhart, the national Zonta organization annually offers scholarships to women in the field of aeronautical engineering. Thirty-eight scholarships have been awarded and since 1958, each has amounted to $2,500.

Guest speaker at the Monday evening dinner-meeting of the Capitol Business and Professional Women's Club, held at the YWCA, was Miss Ellamae Reimers, coordinator of welfare for the Lincoln Schools.

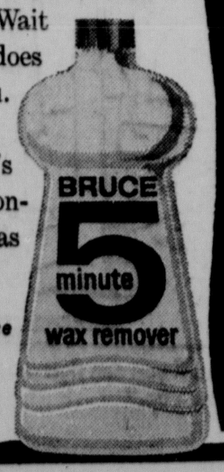

Miss Reimers spoke to the group on her recent trip to England, France, Italy, Germany and The Netherlands, where she studied welfare problems prevalent to those nations.

Sports Editor, The Star

Good Ideas—But!

Collapse of efforts to retain baseball in Lincoln for 1962—thanks largely to the back-biting of old hands in the Three I League and tampering by the Midwest League—prompts Kenneth W. Veon of Lincoln to pen some thoughts.

Mr. Veon's suggestions, in the form of questions as to their feasibility, include:

—A Class A or Class B league including Lincoln, Des Moines, Topeka, Hutchinson, Pueblo and Colorado Springs; Wichita or St. Joe if Des Moines isn't available.

—Recall of O. M. Hobbs, former Western League president, to guide the re-organization of the old WL, either as a Class A or Class B league.

—Baltimore, Milwaukee, Chicago White Sox and the New York Mets furnishing 4 working agreements, with the Farm Directors pooling Class B players for the two league teams.

—Co-operation of the major leagues as a result of the "compact league."

—Renewed efforts of the Lincoln press to boost fan interest here and in the other communities.

Nothing 'New'

In answer to the queries, I can say "negative" to all points. Not that the ideas are necessarily bad, but most of them have been tried before and the major leagues have already written off any possible lineup for 1962.

Point by point, I'd analyze the situation this way:

1. Des Moines has indicated it wants no part of professional baseball, to begin with, and while the idea of a league which includes the eastern cities proposed is a good one—there's a catch. Colorado Springs and Pueblo—which already has torn down its baseball park, by the way—are to far removed from the other cities. Three I and Western League travel was blamed for major league withdrawal—they'd never buy such a widespread loop again, either Class B or Class A.

2. Despite valiant efforts, Mr. Hobbs was unable to save the old Western. While he'd make every effort—if he accepted the task—it would be much more difficult, even impossible, to rebuild a far-flung league than to keep an existing one alive.

3. The working agreement plan suggested was devised at the national convention, but was vetoed by Burlington and Des Moines. Now the major league clubs have made other commitments for their players.

4. Since the proposed league would not be compact, the majors would balk. Consolidation is the aim these days.

5. A drunk must have desire to stop drinking or he can't stay on the wagon. Likewise, a city—fans, businessmen, etc.—must want baseball before the press can be truly effective. The press can't force baseball on any city, if its presence isn't wanted.

More Needed

This corner stood behind baseball 100 per cent—and will in the future—just as did fellows like Vaulx Risser and Jim Ebel, to name a couple.

But it takes more than just a handful of dedicated people to get the job done—like full-scale community support and interest, league co-operation and respect for each of the other clubs and cities, and effective support of baseball, major and minor.

Unfortunately, not all of these requisites were fulfilled and Lincoln is without professional baseball.

PS: Best hope for the future—a truly compact Class A League for 1963 (Lincoln, Des Moines, Topeka, Hutchinson, Sioux City and Sioux Falls, for example) or the entry of Lincoln and Des Moines into the Triple A American Association, which needs two more cities.

WEST NBA ROLLS 150-130

. . . Pettit, Robertson, Baylor All-Star Standouts

St. Louis (AP) — The West combined the talents of rebounder Bob Pettit, playmaker Oscar Robertson and uncanny shooter Elgin Baylor in a convincing 150-130 triumph over the East, who lost despite Wilt Chamberlain's record 42 points in the 12th annual National Basketball Association all-star game Tuesday night.

Pettit, the St. Louis Hawks 8-year veteran, set an all-star record of 27 rebounds and was voted Most Valuable Player of the game for a record 4th time in his career.

Pettit, who had 25 points, won the MVP trophy by a 27 to 11 margin over Robertson, Cincinnati's complete player who won the trophy last year.

Baylor, playing on an Army pass, pumped in 32 points as the West scored its second straight decisive victory in the series. Robertson engineered the West's winning 3rd-quarter surge and scored a record-tying 14 points in that quarter.

Bill Russell, the great rebounder and defensive star of the Boston Celtics, was presented a trophy after the game as the Most Valuable Player of the NBA last season. He was voted the honor by the players.

Robertson, who didn't have a point until the last minute of the first half, finished with 26. Walt Bellamy, Chicago's amazing rookie, had 23 points and was the number two rebounder for the West with 17 grabs.

Chamberlain, the 7-1, point-a-minute scorer from Philadelphia, was the game's number two rebounder with 24 and hit 17 of 23 shots from the field, most of them tapins or dunks under the goal.

Baylor and Robertson led a West drive which turned a 64-62 battle into an 84-70 runaway at the outset of the 3rd quarter.

A St. Louis Arena crowd of 15,112, 3rd biggest in all-star history, and largest ever to watch a basketball game in St. Louis, cheered wildly as the West poured it on, pulling to a 97-81 bulge late in the period.

The East veterans made their final bid at this point with 9 straight points, cutting the West lead to 7. But the West took control again for a 105-94 lead at the end of the 3rd quarter.

In the last quarter Chamberlain pumped in 13 points but had little help as Robertson, Jerry West, Baylor and Bellamy combined to put the game out of reach.

Richie Guerin of New York was the East's second best scorer with 23 points before he fouled out in the last quarter.

—CONCORDIA VICTIM—

Wesleyan In 99-70 Romp

...NWU SPEED PAYS OFF

By BILL HORD
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska Wesleyan rolled over Concordia Tuesday night for its 10th win of the season and 8th non-conference victory 99-70.

The Plainsmen, who seemed right at home around the triple figures before the holiday tournaments, fell short of the magic number in a desperate final-minute attempt.

A cold spell halted the Plainsmen after a 48-38 halftime lead and the century mark looked like a far cry away.

22 Points

But Jim Munford, Wesleyan's smooth-moving wizard under the basket, kicked through with a fast 22 points in the latter part of the second half to boost the hosts. He finished with 30.

Wesleyan had little, if any, trouble with the Bulldogs as the Tri-State team was no match for the fast moving Plainsmen.

Concordia held the lead at 1-0 and 6-5 but two baskets by Ed Stevens put the Plainsmen ahead to stay.

Chet Paul was an early spark for the winners as the 6-5 center tallied 8 points in the first half. He finished the game with 12 points and 12 rebounds.

Munford Fits

Munford, who didn't hit a field goal until only two minutes were remaining in the first half, dealt the Bulldogs fits when he got to working in the second half.

The 6-4 senior veteran logged a trio of 3 point plays in the game and hit 12-14 free throws.

Gordon Bredow was the big spark for the losers with 21 points while Jim Juergensen hit 15. They were the only Bulldogs in double figures while the Plainsmen posted 5 with 10 or more.

Guards Star

Ed Stevens and Don Beckman were again the stars in Wesleyan's fast moving game.

The two little guards more than made up for (in points) several displays of wild passing by the Plainsmen with their stealthy ball-stealing tactics.

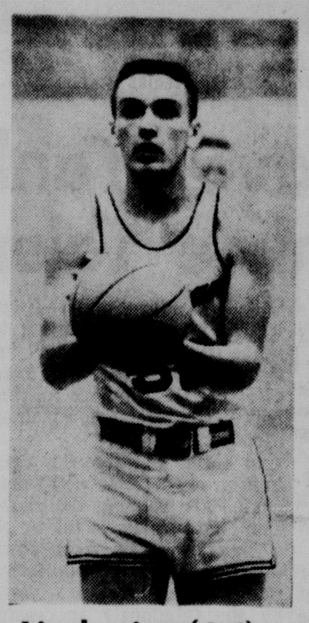

The Plainsmen out-rebounded their foe 64-52 with Paul's 13 and Munford's 12 pacing the way.

FORD, BERRA SIGNED TO FAT '62 CONTRACTS

. . . WHITEY BECOMES HIGHEST PAID YANKEE PITCHER

New York (AP) — Whitey Ford, baseball's biggest winner in 1961, became the highest salaried pitcher in New York Yankee history Tuesday when he signed a one-year contract for $50,000.

Yogi Berra, who had been Ford's batterymate for 10 years until he turned outfielder last season, also agreed to terms for 1962, putting his signature to a contract calling for an estimated $52,000.

Yankee general manager Roy Hamey, who announced the dual signings at a press conference, said both had received increases. In Ford's case, it was a whopping $15,000 raise over last year's salary while Berra is believed to have gotten a "token" boost of $2,000.

Ford enjoyed the best season of his career in 1961, winning 25 and losing only 4. The brilliant left-hander, who was 31 last October, added two triumphs in the Yankees' World Series victory over Cincinnati.

He outdueled the Reds' Jim O'Toole 2-0 in the opener and added 5 runless innings in the 4th game to extend his World Series scoreless inning streak to 32, bettering Babe Ruth's 43-year-old record of 29 2-3 innings.

"It was by far the biggest raise I have ever received," said Ford, "and I'm delighted with it. I agreed to the first offer made to me because it was just about the figure I had in mind."

The previously highest salaried Yankee pitcher was Allie Reynolds, paid $48,000 in 1952.

Berra, like Ford, was present at the conference and he, too, was all smiles.

"Yep, I got a raise," he said. "It's the best contract I got since 3 years ago. That was my best." He reportedly earned $55,000 in 1959.

Berra batted .271 playing in 119 games last year. He slammed 22 home runs and drove in 61 runs to boost his lifetime totals to 340 homers and 1,367 RBI. A year ago, burdened by the task of catching nearly every day, Berra had talked of retirement. This thought apparently has vanished from his mind.

The Yankees have 3 players, all top stars, in the fold. Mickey Mantle signed his contract last month for an estimated $85,000.

Roger Maris, who rejected the first offer made to him, is expected to meet with Hamey before the players head for spring training in Florida next month.

Devaney Doubtful Of Early Release

. . . CHECKING ASSISTANTS' STATUS

Laramie, Wyo. (AP) — Football coach Bob Devaney said Tuesday he has little hopes of getting released from his Wyoming contract before a meeting of the Board of Trustees Feb. 2.

Devaney has been named head football coach at the University of Nebraska, pending release from the remaining 4½ years of his Wyoming contract.

Devaney said he had returned to Laramie this week "primarily to find out what the status of the assistant coaches will be."

Three of Devaney's assistants at Wyoming have applied for the Cowboy coaching job which Devaney hopes to vacate. Devaney has offered all 3 assistant coaching positions at Nebraska.

Offensive line coach Carl Selmer has said he will follow Devaney to Nebraska unless he gets the head coaching job. Others on Devaney's working staff who have expressed an interest in the head coaching job are defensive line coach Lloyd Eaton and backfield coach Mike Corgan.

Devaney said he would confer later with athletic director Glenn Jacoby, but added "I doubt if any momentous decisions will come out of the discussion."

"Apparently there's not much I can do personally but sit and wait for the release," Devaney said. "However, I'd like to get the matter of the assistant coaches settled so I can fill my staff at Nebraska."

In Cheyenne, Clifford P. Hansen, president of the university's board of trustees, said there are two reasons why a board meeting probably will not be called before Feb. 2.

Some of the board members want to discuss the matter thoroughly and it is too costly to call a special meeting were given as reasons.

Back-To-Back 300's Earn Good Pin Start

Detroit (AP)—Ernest Babcock warmed up by bowling a 238 in the opening game of his team's match in the Fort Park Downriver Classic league.

Then Babcock dazzled the opposition by rolling two successive 300 games, giving him an 838 series.

It was "the biggest thrill of my life," said the 46-year-old ecorse factory supervisor. The 838 total set an all-time Detroit record and was the first time on record that a bowler has rolled back-to-back 300s in ABC-sanctioned competition in the Detroit area.

Trabert May Coach French Davis Cuppers

Paris (AP)—Ex-United States Davis Cup Star Tony Trabert will coach the French Davis Cup team starting March 1 if he accepts an offer from the French Federation.

"We cannot make an announcement until receiving acceptance from Tony, now on a business trip in Australia," an official said Tuesday.

BETTOR BEATS THIS 'INSURANCE POLICY'

Hagerstown, Md. (AP)—E. L. (Dutch) Shirey, who won $20,627.80 on a $2 bet at the Charles Town race track New Year's Day, has picked up another $2,232.

Both times, Shirey won the money on the twin double—picking winners in the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th races. And both times, Shirey played only one combination in the twin double.

What's his system?

"None," Shirey says. "Just horse player's luck, I guess. I figure it's like an insurance policy paying off. You know, you pay so much in . . ."

Actually, Shirey bet $6, but missed on the daily double which pays off on winners of the first two races. The retired clothier wasn't at the track.

Tuesday he went to Charles Town to sign a form required by the government for winners of more than $600 and to pick up the money.

NBA Expansion Waits Until Baltimore Ready

...STOCKING SYSTEM WILL BE REVISED

St. Louis (AP) — The National Basketball Association announced Tuesday it will not consider further expansion next year except to honor a commitment to Baltimore for a franchise for the 1962-63 season if a playing arena is ready.

The NBA board of governors, meeting in connection with the 12th annual NBA all-star game, also disclosed a new formula — as yet undecided — will be used to supply players for the new franchise. The formula will be determined at later NBA meetings.

Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, made it clear a formula used to provide players for the admission of Chicago to the league this season will be discarded.

Podoloff said the board of governors had been assured the Baltimore Municipal Coliseum, now under construction, will be ready in time for the 1962-63 season, a condition for granting of the franchise, Podoloff said, and were discussed at the meeting. None of the bidders was represented at the meeting.

Under the discarded formula for the admission of Chicago this season, Chicago plaid a flat franchise fee of $200,000. The 8 teams then in the NBA set up a player pool in which each club exempted 7 players and put the rest in the pool. Chicago chose from the pool not more than one player from each of the 8 teams.

Additionally, Chicago received the first choice in the regular college draft and in the second round was given 6 successive choices. At the start of the 3rd round, the new club reverted to 9th choice.

Gus Becomes 1st Oriole To Sign

Baltimore (AP)—Catcher Gus Triandos, dean of the Baltimore Orioles who had expressed a desire to be traded, was the first announced contract signer.

It was the 8th Oriole contract signed by Triandos. He came to Baltimore at the end of the 1954 baseball season in a multiple player deal with the New York Yankees.

The 31-year-old catcher had let it be known last month he would prefer to play elsewhere.

COTTON INJURED

Seattle (AP) — Eddie Cotton, 3rd ranked among the light-heavyweight contenders by the National Boxing Association, was injured by a flying piece of heavy metal.

Haymakers Turn Tables On Swedes By 66-62

Lincoln Star Special

Cozad—Cozad broke a 62-62 tie in the last two minutes to emerge with a 66-62 win over Gothenburg Tuesday night.

It was the 3rd win in the Southwest conference for the Haymakers and puts them ahead of Gothenburg's 3-1 mark in loop play.

The Swedes from Gothenburg went into the game sporting a 60-54 win over the Haymakers in the Southwest Conference Tournament last Friday.

But, the Swedes trailed all the way up until the final two minutes when they notched it up at 62-62 in a desperate attempt to save their No. one Class B rating.

Gothenburg (7-1) replaced the Haymakers (7-1) in the No. one slot this week after tournament upset but Cozad came back to turn the tables again.

Bill Moorman was the big gun for Cozad with 25 points while Ken Williams was high for the Swedes with 16.

Gothenburg	13	9	23	15—62
Cozad	23	14	13	17—66

Winners high—Bill Moorman, 25. Losers high—Ken Williams, 16.

Wichita Appoints Donaldson

Wichita, Kan. (AP)—Appointment of Bob Donaldson, 39, as coordinator of athletic affairs at the University of Wichita was reported by President Harry F. Corbin Tuesday.

Corbin said Donaldson, director of public relations at the Missouri Valley Conference school since December 1960, will switch to the newly-created athletic post immediately.

He said Donaldson's major responsibilities will be in coordination and promotion of the school's athletic program.

The move came in the wake of resignations, effective Jan. 1, of director of athletics Tippy Dye and head football coach Hank Foldberg.

Dye went to the University of Nebraska as director of athletics; Foldberg to Texas A. & M. as director of athletics and head football coach.

Marcelino Huerta Jr., for 10 years head football coach at the University of Tampa (Fla.), was named last week as Foldberg's successor at Wichita.

Omaha U. Edges Maroons, 55-53

Omaha (AP)—Omaha University broke a 5-game losing streak Tuesday night via a 55-53 basketball victory over Morningside of Sioux City.

Morningside had led 32-26 at the half. Omaha tied at 43-all, then Ken Connor hit two baskets to give Omaha a lead the Indians never surrendered.

Conner led Omaha scoring with 16 points. Bob Garretson topped all scorers with 23 for Morningside.

Nicklaus Seeking Encore In Crosby

...SCENE OF PAST GLORY

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP) — Husky Jack Nicklaus draws a rugged assignment in familiar surroundings this week as he shoots for Bing Crosby golf money at the scene of his last big amateur triumph.

It was just 4 months ago that the 21-year-old from Ohio State University blasted par repeatedly on the Pebble Beach course to win his second United States amateur championship. In the final he decisively whipped Texan Dudley Wysong 8 and 6.

The 205-pound blond belter said then he wanted to play in this $50,000 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur tournament but expected to do so as an amateur. Not many weeks later the lure of gold changed his mind and he embarked on a professional career to start 1962.

Nicklaus won't play the 6,701-yard Pebble Beach course in either the opening round on Thursday or the second on Friday. Under the Crosby foremat, the golfers play over 3 courses on this picturesque Monterey peninsula.

The draw scheduled Nicklaus to fire his first 18 at the Cypress Point course and the second at Monterey Peninsula Country Club before trying Pebble Beach.

The neophyte pro's debut in tournament competition this year at Los Angeles proved far from impressive as he collected $33.33 for a finish far down the list. He improved in the San Diego Open with a 282 for 72 holes, a tie for 15th place and a check for $550.

In his 144 holes of medal competition, he was 3 strokes over par. Last September, in his 7 national amateur matches he played a total of 136 holes and was 20 under par.

All 3 courses here are exacting. Blustery winds often whip off the Pacific Ocean to add to golfers' problems. Most consider the 6,246-yard Monterey Peninsula course somewhat easier than the other two, partially due to tall trees acting as windbreaks.

Pros win money in two ways. First, in the usual individual category which carries a $5,300 top stipend. Second, in the pro-amateur division with a $3,000 first prize for the professional.

A total of 162 teams or 324 golfers are entered.

Mets Have 'Yankee Class' But Yankee Talent Lacking

New York (UPI) — The budding New York Mets will have "Yankee Class" everywhere but on the playing field when they bring National League baseball back to the big town in 1962.

The ownership, the front-office, the field manager, the stadium boss and even the trainer all are top drawer.

The team itself is not. Nor is the hand-me-down, worn out polo grounds, one-time home of the departed Giants, but it will be scrubbed and re-fitted with a $300,000 face-lifting to make it almost "liveable" for the year the Mets will have to spend there before moving to a new stadium in Flushing Meadow.

In time, the team figures to improve because ex-Yankee brains are running the show. The club already is taking on a Yankee flavor right down to the new pin-stripe uniforms patterned after those worn by the fabulously successful world champions.

Here's a sample of the new club directory:

Chief stockholder is Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, long a familiar name in horse-racing, long-time Giant fan, once a backer of Branch Rickey's proposed 3rd major league.

Mrs. Payson is on excellent speaking terms with money, an important talent that'll get a good workout the next few years with the Mets. However, when she gave away a couple of million dollars to one of her charities not long ago it was estimated her bankroll was capable of repeating the same gesture for another century or so without showing alarming signs of shrinkage.

So far, Mrs. Payson has been disappointed in only one small item. She had hoped the team would be nicknamed "the Larks" because its future home was to be Flushing Meadow where, presumably, Meadow Larks once flitted.

In the front-office is old reliable George Weiss, bounced by the Yankees when he reached retirement age but regarded as one of baseball's shrewdest operators.

On the managerial bench—Casey Stengel, another "retired" Yankee. At 71, Casey became "unretired" to help George get the Mets off the ground. Casey brought in ex-managers Cookie Lavagetto and Solly Hemus to help.

The trainer is Gus Mauch, long-time Yankee. The Mets' stadium boss and also ticket manager is another ex-Yankee, Jim Thompson.

Johnny Murphy, former Yankee relief pitching ace and one-time Boston Red Sox farm director, is an assitant to Weiss in the swivel-chair department.

"Everything possible will be done to spruce up the Polo Grounds," says Thompson. "We'll be there only a year and the money spent will be a total loss but we want the first impressions of the customers to be as good as we can make it."

$50,000 Hole In One Made In PGA Meet

Dunedin, Fla. (AP) — Jim Fisher of Belmont, Mass., who makes a habit of holes-in-one, fired a $50,000 ace Tuesday in the first round of the PGA club and quarter-century championships.

The 58-year-old Fisher is New England representative for the golf company which offered $50,000 to any player in the dual tournament making a hole-in-one while playing with its clubs.

He shot his hole-in-one on the 192-yard, 15th hole of the PGA course using a 3-iron. The ball bounced about 20 feet from the pin and rolled to the cup.

It was the 13th for Fisher

ZARUBA: NO FUN AS NU PLAYER

Omaha (AP) — Former Husker backfield ace Carroll Zaruba says football at Nebraska wasn't fun. It was work.

Zaruba, now an Omaha insurance man, said Monday:

"Don't get me wrong. I love the game. I had fun in high school, in service and in pro ball with Dallas. But at Nebraska football was work."

He declined to expand on his reasons for not enjoying football at Nebraska, merely adding that "You know, I wasn't going to play at Nebraska in the first place."

The 1960 season, at Dallas in the American Football League as a corner defensive man, was his last.

MINOR TRAGEDY IN CRICKET CIRCLES

London (AP) — The 85 men who make 95 per cent of the cricket balls produced in Britain threatened Tuesday to go on strike for a pay raise. So did 36 associates who make cricket bats.

All of them want an increase of 6 pence (7 cents) an hour in wages which now average around 4 shillings 6 pence (63 cents).

The militant makers of gear for the British national game are represented by the National Union of Furniture Trade Operatives (cricket ball and bat section).

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

In the preceding article, I explained how to get a short hook by positioning the thumb at approximately ball center, with the fingers just a little to the right of center. Lift the arm gently as the ball is released and the finger apply hook (right to left) spin.

It is an effective ball, not difficult to control under any lane conditions.

Among the stars, the position of the hand varies from the thumb straight ahead to the extreme change shown in today's illustration. Here, you see the thumb pointed left, at about 9 o'clock on a clock dial. The fingers naturally are on the outside (right) of the ball.

Sharpshooters like Ray Bluth, Billy Welu and George Howard begin with the thumb pointed ahead, then change to the grip in the sketch during the downswing. In this way they combine a wrist turn and finishing arm lift that keeps the hook break short, with medium speed.

Some of the experts take the thumb-left position immediately, like Al Savas, Ed Lubanski and Paul Krumske. It's the suitcase grip — gripping the ball as they would a suitcase. Try it. Take the grip and keep it all the way by freezing the wrist.

Seeded Polk Advances In Goldenrod

Polk—Top-seeded Polk had little trouble in gaining a semi-final berth here Tuesday night in the opening round of the Goldenrod Conference basketball tournament.

Polk drubbed Palmer, 52-21, in the first contest and Clarks defeated Silver Creek, 53-43, in the other.

Val Tops Ceresco In Husker 12

Lincoln Star Special

Wahoo—Valparaiso clipped Ceresco 58-54 in an overtime Tuesday night to highlight the activity in the Husker 12 Conference basketball tournament.

Steve Kratovil brought Valparaiso out of the fire in the overtime after Ceresco had fought back from an early deficit to tie the game at 50-50 at the end of regulation time.

Kratovil had 20 points in the regulation game and added 6 in the hectic overtime.

Cedar Bluffs also advanced to the semi-finals with a 48-47 come-back victory over Millard. Cedar was down at the end of the first quarter by 10 points.

Platteview handled Waterloo 61-49 and Elkhorn whipped Gretna 54-43 in the night-cap games.

Semi-final pairings are Cedar Bluffs Vs. Valparaiso and Platteview Vs. Elkhorn.

Platter Athlete Is Star's Cage Pick

By MIKE COONEY
Star Sports Writer

The surprise team of the year in Nebraska prep athletic circles has been North Platte. The Bulldogs captured Big 10 Conference football honors last fall and are well on their way to a basketball title in the Western division of the conference.

One of the sparks of the athletic rennaisance has been Larry Wachholtz, The Star's 4th "Star of the Week."

Wachholtz is small as athletes go. The 5-11 junior however makes up with durability and endurance what he lacks in size.

As a halfback on the Platters football team, Wachholtz was the most feared back in the West Big 10. As a guard in basketball he has turned in a steady and at times spectacular job in the backcourt as North Platte ran to 3 straight conference wins.

Larry was at his best in the Platters 80-51 victory over Scottsbluff Friday night.

The fiery guard hit 17 points, all from long range and harried the Bearcats with his defensive play. His passing was sharp and he repeatedly set up temmates for key baskets.

Wachholtz and these others will receive cards from The Star:

Hildreth—Pete Prahling rammed home 24 points and limited usually high scoring Butch Thorell to one free throw as the Hounds clipped Loomis, 56-45.

Sumner—Sensational sophomore Ron Simmons scored 30 points to spark mates to 75-35 win over Loomis.

Clearwater—Tom Wrenholtz stuffed in 49 points to set Cardinal scoring record against Brunswick.

Shelton—Jim Waller grabbed 53 rebounds and popped 45 points to pep Bulldogs to a pair of weekend wins.

Hemingford—Ed Dyer's 3-point play in last minute saved Bobcats against Sidney St. Patricks.

Maywood—Track star Warren Christiansen netted 23 points and controlled both backboards as Wallace fell, 82-28.

Harrisburg—Dick Van Pelt hit 5 straight points in overtime as Cubs scored 46-39 win over Potter.

Sprague-Martell—Roger Nannen limited Vern Penner to 7 points in Central's upset of Odell at Mudecas Tourney.

DeWitt—Dwight Tietjen was big gun Cloverleaf title game as Dorchester toppled.

Vikings Sign Winston

St. Paul-Minneapolis (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings signed Roy Winston, speedy Louisiana State lineman and the Vikings' top available draft choice.

Winston was Minnesota's second selection in the National Football League draft meetings last month.

Kentucky Moves Up To No. 3 UPI Peg

New York (UPI) — Kentucky's rebounding Wildcats moved into a contending position behind Ohio State and Cincinnati Tuesday as one of the nation's leading major college basketball powers in the United Press International coaches ratings.

Picked to finish 12th in the pre-season balloting by the UPI rating board, Kentucky was a solid 3rd this week in its methodical climb up the ratings ladder as Ohio State's magnificent Buckeyes continued to lead the parade for yet another week.

While unbeaten Ohio State, which again was the top pick of 34 of the 35 coaches who comprise the UPI board, rolled on unperturbed, Cincinnati began to feel the pinch following its second loss of the season.

The Bearcats, who beat Ohio State in the NCAA finals last season, were only 25 points ahead of Kentucky this week with Kansas State a not too distant 4th.

A week ago, Cincinnati held a commanding 74-point lead for second place over Southern California with Kentucky 4th and Kansas State 5th.

UPI TOP 10

First-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

	Points
1. Ohio State (34), (12-0)	349
2. Cincinnati (11-2)	286
3. Kentucky (1), (12-1)	261
4. Kansas State (12-2)	204
5. So. California (12-3)	167
6. Duquesne (11-1)	115
7. Bradley (10-2)	102
8. Duke (11-2)	90
9. Villanova (13-2)	66
10. (tie) Oregon State (11-1)	52
10. (tie) Wichita (13-3)	52

City Pin Tourney Promising

The greatest year in city bowling tournament history is already assured.

Both men and women's meets have attracted record entries with action scheduled for Jan. 27 through Feb. 4.

Close to 1,000 teams will take the lanes after coveted trophies and cash awards.

Over 600 teams are already on the dotted line in the men's tournament, secretary Bernie Kossek reports. This betters the 1961 record of 559 teams.

Kossek emphasized that entries will be accepted in the men's meet until Wednesday, Jan. 24. There are still spots for teams and many openings for the doubles and singles.

The gents will roll their team event at Hollywood Bowl and doubles and singles at Bowl-Mor Lanes.

The ladies will compete at Plaza Bowl and secretary Stella Kaufman has 322 teams in the fold. Last year there were 269.

Although the deadline for entries is past, Mrs. Kaufman said that late entries would be accepted if they can be worked into the schedule.

Odell-DeWitt Slated

Odell (AP)—Odell and DeWitt high schools will play basketball at Odell Saturday night.

A scheduling mixup early in the season caused the special game date. Odell has an 11-1 record; DeWitt is 9-0 for the season.

Aussies Talk Of Pro Net Business

...TO RIVAL KRAMER TROUPE

Melbourne, Australia (AP) — Australian officials are thinking about going into the professional tennis business in competition with promoter Jack Kramer.

The matter was brought up at the annual meeting of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia. Action, however, was deferred until the state associations could consider it.

"There are a number of professionals here who are not committed to play only for Kramer," George Sample, a Sydney delegate, said. "My association (New South Wales) feels it would be to our advantage if we brought them under our control to play tournaments and exhibitions arranged by us."

Most of the top professionals belong to an international association headed by Kramer. The troupe is currently performing in Australia, with the state associations sharing the proceeds for use of the tennis stadia.

The Australian move is not a new gesture toward open tennis, delegates said. Open tennis has been suggested by such big nations as the United States and Britain but rejected by the international federation.

The LTAA also decided to investigate the possibility of broadening the Wightman Cup women's competition to include other nations besides the United States and Britain.

'Cats Greedy With Big 8 Stat Leads

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas State Wildcats are the scoringest team in the Big 8 conference, hold the best overall record for the season, and have the second stingiest defense, conference statistics through Jan. 13 showed Thursday.

The Wildcats, 12-2 for the season and 2-1 in the conference, have averaged 69.2 points in their 14 games, while holding the opposition to 59.2.

Leading the league in scoring in conference competition is Ken Charlton of Colorado with a 23.5 average in two games. Nolen Ellison of Kansas is running second with a 19.0 average in 3 games, and Jerry Gardner of the Jayhawks is 3rd with an 18.0 mark.

Daryl Petsch of Nebraska is running 4th with a 16.3 average in 3 games, followed by Mike Wroblewski of Kansas State with a 15.3 average in 3 games. Nebraska's Ivan Grupe is 10th with a 12.3 average and Tom Russell of the Huskers is 11th with 11.7.

$2 Daily Double In Florida At Hialeah

Miami, Fla. (AP) — The $2 daily double returns to Florida racing today when Hialeah Park takes over for its 40 day meeting.

Tropical Park, which ended its season Tuesday, abandoned the customary $2 double and installed a $3 daily double instead.

ROTTEN IN MONTREAL...

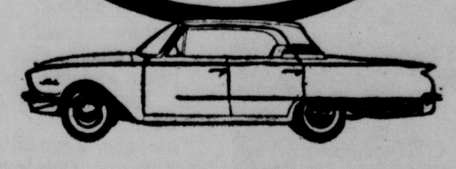

Montreal, Que., (AP) — A 27-man commission called upon attorney genral Georges Lapalme of Quebec to make a sweeping investigation of boxing and wrestling in the province.

The civic-appointed commission, headed by Jean LaRoche, said its survey showed "exploitation of boxers for the profit of doubtful characters who are ready to gather together here the underworld banished from the United States by the Kefauver investigation."

Some of the abuses listed were under-the-table contracts, blackmail of boxers and disrespect for referees and authorities.

Wrestling was described as a "degrading exhibition which has the effect of encouraging young people to despise authority and discipline."

VICTORY over fuel system icing

NEWS ITEM: Washington—The Air Force has approved the use of a new chemical additive to prevent in-flight difficulties from ice formation in jet aircraft fuel systems. This additive is an exclusive development of Phillips Petroleum Company.

In your car Phillips 66 also provides anti-icing protection with a specially developed additive

Flying miles high in the stratosphere, where temperatures can drop to 70° below zero, SAC bombers will rely on a Phillips Anti-Icing additive to guard against in-flight fuel system freeze-ups. This additive is approved for use in all military jet aircraft.

Of special importance to you, the motorist, is the fact that your car can run better in winter weather thanks to Phillips cold weather fuel formulations.

Phillips knows exactly what it takes to blend gasoline for easy starting and freedom from stalling in cold weather. Fill up with Sixty-Six Gasoline or Flite-Fuel and get the benefit of Phillips Anti-Icing protection all through the cold months. Drive in where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

Young 'Need To Know All About Communism'

... LEGION OFFICIAL CONTENDS

Young people of the United States are more poorly informed about Communism now than at any time in history, the national adjutant of the American Legion said Tuesday night in an interview.

This is the No. 1 reason why the Legion is setting up programs to teach about Communism, E. A. Blackmore said. Blackmore, the national adjutant, is in Lincoln to speak to Lincoln Post No. 3 Wednesday night.

"There is a need for information on Communism so that the American people can compare Communism with Americanism," Blackmore said.

E. A. BLACKMORE

"The American Legion feels that the way to combat Communism is to teach people about it, rather than to keep them in the dark about Communist methods and tactics," he continued.

State Program

The Nebraska American Legion plans to start a program of teaching Communism in the state's schools next fall. The program will begin in the Lincoln Public Schools next semester.

Blackmore pointed out that the American Legion isn't working on the project alone, but that it is receiving cooperation from the National Education Association, state boards of education, and local school boards.

Blackmore credits increased world conflicts, plus the Berlin crisis and the Cuban situation for the increased interest.

"We are advocating the teaching of Communism in schools for our young people, but there is also an intense interest among older people," Blackmore explained. "We hope these seminars will supply the information to these people."

When the study of Communism is introduced into the schools, it will be offered to the students just as any other course is offered and credit will be given, Blackmore noted.

DRAGGER AGROUND IN SURF

The Boston dragger, Margaret Rose, went aground Tuesday off Provincetown, Mass. Her 7-man crew and a Coast Guardsman were removed by breeches buoy, arrow. Fire later broke out aboard the craft which went ashore while seeking safety from a storm at sea.

2 Post Office Officials Will Retire Shortly

E. G. Albrecht and William J. Sieck will retire from the Lincoln Post Office, it was announced.

Albrecht, acting superintendent of mails, began as a substitute clerk in 1922 and was detailed to his present position in 1961.

Sieck, assistant superintendent for window services, began as a substitute carrier in Havelock in 1926 and reached his present position by reclassification in 1955.

Albrecht's retirement is effective January 31, Sieck's February 2.

'Pay Attention To Overseas Wheat Needs'

Foreign importers' needs and demands should be paid more attention because the U.S. exported more wheat last year than it consumed, 100 wheat researchers were told Tuesday.

Economist L. W. Schruben informed the experts attending a 3-day Hard Winter Wheat Workers Conference at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education that the 3 biggest importers of American wheat are West Germany, Italy and Japan.

The conferees are United States Department of Agriculture research workers and researchers from land-grant colleges throughout the Great Plains.

Fertilizer Institute To Draw 1,200

More than 1,200 dealers and farmers are expected Wednesday for the second day of the 1962 Nebraska fertilizer, machinery and chemical exposition, which started Tuesday at Pershing Municipal Auditorium.

Institute President Clay Westcott of Holdrege said 600 were present Tuesday.

The Nebraska Fertilizer Institute, University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and commercial fertilizer interests are presenting the program.

Farmer's Day Speech

Among speakers on "Farmer's Day" will be Ralph Cole of Lincoln, Nebraska member of the Feed Grain Advisory Committee, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Other speakers are:

Dr. D. G. Hanway, chairman of the NU agronomy department; Dr. Donald C. Clanton, NU department of animal husbandry; Dr. Floyd Smith, Kansas State University, Manhattan; Dr. M. D. Weldon, NU Extension agronomist, and Dr. Gerald Weekman, NU entomology department.

Jefferson GOP To Honor Denney At Sunday Event

Lincoln Star Special

Fairbury—Robert V. Denney, recently named state Republican chairman, will be honored Sunday at a county-wide reception sponsored by Jefferson County GOP officers.

Mrs. Clarence Henkel, county chaiman, noted that the event was scheduled to "show appreciation for Mr. Denny's willingness to participate actively in the political affairs of the state."

"He is an outstanding representative of Jefferson County who is bringing credit to his home county and is working effectively to strengthen Nebraska Republicans so the state will have even greater national influence," she stated.

Members of the state central committee and other party dignitaries have been invited. A young Republican dinner will follow.

Smith Is Named To New Post

Gov. Frank Morrison announced Tuesday night he has appointed Harold D. Smith, former superintendent of the Men's Reformatory, as an assistant parole officer for the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

The appointment is effective Feb. 9.

Smith, 62, resigned Monday from the superintendent's post to which he had been appointed March 25, 1958.

Smith's new appointment means the Pardon Board now will have 3 parole officers.

'Rehabilitation Of Unfortunate Can Save State Funds'

"A state that would turn its back on its unfortunate citizens cannot qualify for distinction," Gov. Frank Morrison told the Nebraska Welfare Association Tuesday night.

He said the state must decide if it should invest funds in the rehabilitation of human beings. The governor added that this could actually save the state money.

"We are talking about the problems of people who, by virtue of birth, environment or both, are less than whole personalities. There is abundant evidence that when those people who can take their place in society are released from a life of utter dependency, they require much less financial aid."

The governor said a program of rehabilitation would require more trained workers and additional training for those people currently on the job.

Frank Mook Sr., Retired Hospital Carpenter, Dies

Frank Mook Sr. of 3020 T died Monday. He was a retired house carpenter for Lincoln General Hospital.

Mr. Mook, 77, was born in Freeport, Ill. His parents homesteaded at Malcolm.

He worked for the Burlington Railroad for 5 years. In 1921 he went to work for the Nebraska Lumber Co. in Lincoln. Shortly thereafter he became a carpenter and contracted to build homes.

He began working at the hospital in 1942 and retired in 1948.

He is survived by his wife, Anna; daughter, Mrs. Florence Fuhrer; sons, Dan J. and Frank M. of Lincoln and Burton L. of Wichita; a brother, Edward of Chicago; sisters, Mrs. Edith Sherrow and Mrs. Mabel Bergman of Lincoln, Mrs. Myrtle Cooper of Greeley, Colo.; 6 grandchildren; several nieces and nephews.

County Board Takes No Road Request Actions

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday took no action on two public requests concerning grading and graveling of roads.

E. F. Schmieding of 3701 No. 44th asked the board for help in grading Turner and Colfax Streets, proposed connecting roads between 44th and 41st north of Cornhusker Hwy.

'Impassible Bus Route'

Waverly area farmers Wayne Nielson, Jack Hanson and Howard Oberg requested that ¾ mile of road on a school bus route be graveled.

They said the bus must travel the road 3 times a day, and in bad weather it is practically impassable.

Dillon said the ¾ mile is on the 1962 road program for grading but plans had not been made to gravel it.

He estimated graveling will cost between $2,400 and $2,500.

Towns To Get Flood Plain Data Easier

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Tuesday directed Executive Secretary Warren Fairchild to participate with the Corps of Engineers in making flood plain information more readily available to Nebraska towns.

The new program would provide information to towns on the status of local flood plain problems and help them in their planning and growth.

Everett Barr of Liberty was named chairman and Milton Fricke of Papillion was named vice-chairman of the group's monthly meeting here Tuesday.

You, Too, Will Be A Number On U.S. List

Did you ever think you could be just a number to someone, even though you never commit a crime?

You will be just that to the federal government in 1963, if things go as planned.

This was one fact brought out by tax accountant Belle Graves at the first meeting of a Lincoln Public Schools adult class on income tax returns Tuesday night.

The class was told the government is planning to give everyone a number for income tax purposes. In this way, it will be able to trace everything that is ever paid to any person.

Basic subject matter for the 8-week course will be instruction on how to make out income tax returns. The class will meet Tuesday evenings.

Surplus Can Not Be Included In Paid-Up Capital

There is no basis upon which the surplus of a bank may be included as a part of the paid-up capital stock for purposes of computing the pro rata share of the county depository banks, the attorney general's office said Tuesday.

The comment came in an opinion in connection with the authority of a county treasurer to make time deposits. The opinion was requested by Kimball County Atty. Thomas D. Brower.

The attorney general said capital surplus is not to be used in determining the proportionate distribution of county funds as among qualified depositories.

He added that the pro rata rule applies only to demand deposits because the deposits under a section of the law (77-2340), as amended, are treated as investments, rather than deposits.

In answer to another question, the attorney general said time deposits may be made with banks other than those within the county if the banks have been approved as depository banks for county funds.

Ward Appointed

Omaha (UPI) — Robert Ward was appointed chairman of the occupational safety committee of the Omaha Safety Council. Noel Griffith was named vice chairman and Harold Wheelock was appointed secretary.

Helvey Resigns As CD Director

Lincoln Star Special

Fairbury — A heart attack has brought the resignation of Foster Helvey as Jefferson County Civil Defense director only a few weeks after his appointment to the post.

Now a patient in the Veterans Hospital at Lincoln, he had accepted the position as the county's first fulltime director. He is a former sheriff and until recently was engaged in business here.

There has been no announcement as to the future of the position.

Britain Will Go Ahead With Sale Of Jets To Red China

London (AP) — Brtian will go ahead with sales of 6 Viscount jet airliners to Red China despite a new American bid to block the deal, government officials reported Tuesday night.

The Foreign Office at the same time moved to check reports the United States has banned the supply of certain strategic equipment used in the Viscounts.

An authorized source disputed the right of the Washington administration to apply its regulations in this country.

Fresh Phase

These developments signalled a fresh phase in the 12-year-old British-American dispute over relations with Red China. Britain has recognized the Peiping regime but the United States has not. London hopes to follow up the $10 million Viscount deal with the sale of dozens of other airliners, fuel oil and industrial goods on easy credit terms. Washington frowns on all such trade.

The American bid to bar the transaction was disclosed Monday by Assistant Secretary of State Frederick Dutton. He told Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., in a letter that the American company whose British offshoot makes navigation and radar gear for Viscounts has been warned not to supply the equipment.

The British source said:

"It is the policy of Her Majesty's government to honor all contracts entered into by this country. This sale therefore will go forward.

Do Not Apply

"The warning to the makers of the navigation gear not to supply the equipment cannot affect the situation. U.S. regulations do not apply in this country."

Earlier the Foreign Office had said Ambassador Sir David Ormsby-Gore in Washington had been ordered to check reports of the American action. A spokesman told reporters the British government had not been notified in advance of the American intention to bar the supply of the equipment.

Red China recently followed up the Viscount order with preliminary negotiations to buy dozens of Handley Page Herald jet airliners.

Hawley's In Charge Of Education Dept.

The State Board of Education Tuesday named Stanley Hawley, deputy education commissioner, as acting head of the department until a successor is appointed to replace Dr. Freeman Decker.

Hawley

Decker has taken over the new post of coordinater of the state's 4 teachers colleges.

Board President Hamilton F. Mitten of Fremont said the appointment of a commissioner would now be delayed until the board's February 13 meeting.

It was understood the board has not interviewed all of the persons suggested for the office.

Interviews apparently were conducted Tuesday with 3 candidates: Hawley, Dr. Floyd Miller, assistant commissioner of education, and Don Bush, now teaching at Central Michigan University and a former member of the Department of Education in charge of school plant services.

Salary Too Low

There were also indications the board was concerned about the $12,500 annual salary of the commissioner's post as being too low.

On other matters, the board said it plans to disseminate information to the public on its position on all educational programs.

The board accepted an offer by the American Legion of $1,000 to implement a teaching program which will show the theory and practices of communism on a comparative basis with America's government of freedom.

In other action:

Further considered a proposal that a citizen advisory council on rehabilitation be formed.

It approved an expenditure up to $4,000 for a new bus for the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford.

It also approved, pending an application from the board of District 14 in Madison County, permission for a one-year extension of the district's contracting for its educational services. County Supt. Mrs. Anne Campbell asked for the extension because a comprehensive redistricting plan is now being worked upon there.

Hot Primaries Shaping Up In 2 Unicam Areas

Primary battles shaped up in two of Nebraska's hotly-contested legislative districts Tuesday as two more candidates entered the field.

Anton Odvarka Jr. of Clarkson filed as a candidate in the 16th district, a post now held by Sen. Peter Claussen of Leigh. Claussen has filed for re-election, while Lyle Marotz of Hoskins has also filed.

Albert T. Boom of Fairfield also filed in the 25th District for the vacancy existing since the resignation of Sen. Hans O. Jensen of Aurora. W. J. Berck of Osceola and Parker W. Aker of Polk have also filed for the vacancy.

In other filings, Sen. Arnold J. Ruhnke of Plymouth filed for re-election to his 22nd District post.

Two candidates also filed for directorships of Nebraska public power districts. Orval O. Johnson of Table Rock filed as a candidate for the Eastern Nebraska Public Power District and William Kosch of Shelby filed as a candidate for the Polk County Rural Public Power District.

John B. Bowers Appointed ASCS Office Manager

John B. Bowers of Falls City has been appointed office manager of the Lancaster ASCS Office.

Bowers had been chief clerk for the past 3 years in the Richardson County ASCS Office in Falls City and was in office manager training prior to accepting the Lancaster County position.

Frontier Will Save $190,000 By Route Slash

By the Associated Press

Discontinuance of Frontier Airlines' northern Nebraska route last Dec. 21 will eliminate an estimated $190,000 in operating expense annually for this airline, Frontier's president told the board of directors.

L. B. Maytag Jr., head of the 15-year-old airline, included this in a report to the board saying 1961 would show an estimated record high of more than $300,000 net profit after taxes. This would amount to earnings of more than 32 cents per share.

He termed it the most successful year in Frontier history. Maytag's report was based on preliminary unaudited figures.

Maytag said gross operating revenues for 1961 will be up 9% over 1960 and passenger revenues alone will be up 14%. Operating expenses were expected to be up 7%.

Frontier anticipated another $200,000 in revenue in 1962 through passenger fare increases late in 1961.

He said passenger traffic was up 6% and passenger miles up 11% in 1961.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Three-Legged Fawn Has Friend

Sambo, a 3-legged fawn, enjoys a helping of shelled corn offered by a close friend, Debbie Meyer, who helped nurse the deer back to health. Its left leg was cut off last June by a farmer mowing hay. The animal was brought to the Whitewater Wildlife Refuge near Winona, Minn., where Debbie's father is superintendent.

Justice Department Ready To Move Against U.S. Reds

Washington (UPI) — The Justice Department was reported ready Tuesday to move against leaders of the U.S. Communist Party for failing to register with the government.

Department attorneys may begin presenting evidence Wednesday to a federal grand jury here concerning the refusal of the Community officials to comply with the Internal Security Act of 1950.

The tip-off came Tuesday with the filing in U.S. District Court of letters authorizing 3 attorneys in the department's Internal Security Division to conduct an investigation of possible violations of security laws.

Such letters are required when the department sends its own lawyers, rather than the district attorney's staff, to appear before a grand jury.

The Supreme Court ruled last October that the party, its officers and its members must register with the attorney general or face prison terms and heavy fines.

The party, which defied the order, was indicted last Dec. 1 on 12 counts of failing to register and disclose its membership, list of printing presses and financial records. It faces a maximum fine of $120,000 if the charges are proved.

The department said after the officers did not register by a Dec. 1 deadline that it would start enforcing the registration requirements for Red leaders this month.

A Justice Department spokesman refused to confirm or deny reports that the government was prepared to seek indictments of the Communist hierarchy.

In the papers filed in court Tuesday, Deputy Atty. Gen. Byron Whizzer White said the attorneys were empowered to investigate possible violations of the Internal Security Act's registration provisions. He also said the inquiry would cover a requirement of the law that the Communist Party must label its publications as Communist-produced.

Crosby Leaves Hospital Joking, Bouncing A Ball

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby — bouncing a golf ball and cracking jokes but looking pale and thin — checked out of St. John's Hospital Tuesday.

He underwent a 2-hour, 20-minute operation Jan. 5 for removal of two kidney stones.

A newsman asked the famed crooner whether he would be at Pebble Beach this week for the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament.

"Be there," he quipped, "I'm gonna win it."

His doctor disagrees. He says Crosby can go but can't play.

Budget Men OK Form For $ Breakdown

The Legislative Council's Interim Budget Committee Tuesday approved new procedures aimed at giving the next appropriations committee a better analysis of how every budget dollar is spent.

The committee approved use of forms similar to those employed in Kansas, but it also agreed to retain many of Nebraska's present bookkeeping procedures.

Selection of a fiscal analyst, authorized by the 1961 Legislature, was also discussed after which some recommendations were forwarded to the Executive Board of the Legislative Council.

Under the system approved Tuesday; each governmental department would give a comprehensive summary of its needs when presenting its biennial budget request.

The tax commissioner's office suggested that each department head name a budgeting officer soon. A general meeting of those appointed is to be called by Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson within 30 days.

Pat Daughtery, deputy tax commissioner, told the committee that the "key to the new system's success will be the designation by department heads of the best qualified persons to work with the committee, auditor and tax commissioner.

District Judge White In Chief Justice Contest

Lancaster District Judge Paul White announced his candidacy for chief justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday.

His announcement came after learning that Governor Frank Morrison would seek re-election as governor and would not vie for the justice post.

"I like my present job, but having decided on the judiciary as a career, I feel I would like the challenge of the next step, to the Supreme Court," Judge White said.

White

"My brief experience on the Supreme Court, sitting there by invitation, served to deepen that feeling," he added.

"Now in my 10th year on the Lancaster District bench, and having served as presiding judge of this court 3 times, and having had the state-wide experience as secretary and now president of the Nebraska District Judges," Judge White said, "I feel I am qualified and ready to serve on the Supreme Court."

District Judge Clarence S. Beck of North Platte has filed for the post.

Also contemplating filing is another Lancaster district judge, Herbert A. Ronin.

Judge Ronin told The Star Tuesday that he has not decided but is still interested.

Born in Mitchell, S.D., Judge White has spent most of his life in Lincoln and received his bachelor's degree in 1930 and his law degree in 1932 from the University of Nebraska.

He served in World War II and was chief prosecutor at the war crimes trial of Japanese General Masaharu Homma.

Judge White served as acting Municipal Court Judge in Lincoln from 1949 to 1952, when he was elected to the District Court bench.

Broken Bow Gets Carillon; Honors Former Banker

Broken Bow — A carillon has been presented to the city of Broken Bow by T. T. Varney Jr., president of the Broken Bow State Bank, in memory of his father, T. T. Varney Sr., who was chairman of the Broken Bow State Bank when he died in April, 1960.

The carillon plays chimes each quarter hour, and can be set to play programs.

With it is a siren which can be used for civil defense purposes. The siren and all-clear signal can be heard for 5 miles.

Filling Station Robbery A Hoax; Charges Filed

Beatrice (AP)—Gage County Attorney Merrell Andersen filed an embezzlement charge Tuesday against Clarence Munsterman, filling station attendant who reported to police Sunday an armed bandit had robbed him of $181.27.

Andersen said Munsterman has signed a statement admitting that the robbery report was a hoax and that instead he had hidden the money in a furnace and reported to police he had been robbed.

He was quoted as saying he took the money home with him.

When asked to take a lie detector test, Munsterman admitted the hoax, Anderson said. All but $5 of the money was recovered.

Steels Down, Trading Mild

New York (AP) — Weakness in steels featured a lacklustre stock market which took a moderately severe setback Tuesday in routine trading.

Uncertainty regarding prospects for the steel industry seemed to be increased rather than lessened by President Kennedy's recommendation that steel labor and management hasten an agreement on a new contract to replace the ones expiring June 30.

Steels along with the rest of the market fell sharply following the steel agreement in early 1960. Currently, steel operations are moving up and are at the highest level since April 1960 but the fear has been that it is based on stockpiling in anticipation of a strike and that second half output will therefore slacken.

U.S. Steel touched a new low for 1961-62 and lost 1¼. Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin dropped 1¼ aplece and Bethlehem ⅜.

Motors, chemicals, aircrafts, oils, utilities, tobaccos and drugs also were generally lower but rails, presenting a mixed picture, held their ground on balance.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 4.21 to 705.29.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 1.00 to 256.20 with industrials off 1.90, rails unchanged and utilities off .60.

An estimated $1.5 billion was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the AP average.

Of 1,295 issues traded, 623 declined and 423 advanced. New highs for 1961-62 totaled 16 and new lows 12.

Volume was 3.65 million shares compared with 3.45 million Monday.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange as volume slipped to 1.4 million shares from 1.56 million Monday.

Corporate bonds were mixed while U.S. government bonds were unchanged to lower.

Volume on the exchange rose to $6.27 million par value from $5.93 million Monday.

Institutions Are Handed Directive For Purchasing And Procurement

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

State Institutions Director George Morris, former state purchasing agent, Tuesday issued an 8-point directive outlining purchasing and procurement procedures for all state institutions.

The directive, he said, resulted from general agreements reached at a recent meeting held at Hastings with business managers of all the institutions.

Directive Text

The text of the directive:

"1. Requisitions will be written in complete form in order that the purchasing agency will be able to understand exactly what is needed and why, if this needs to be indicated. In cases of specific items a full justification will be included either on the requisition or by accompanying letter.

"2. Vendors who have failed to meet specifications and institutional needs will be dropped from the list of bidders. This action will be taken when it is indicated by the institutions themselves that such a situation exists.

"3. In connection with the above, it is directed that when any item which has been purchased is proven unsatisfactory, this department be notified in order that this particular brand may be eliminated from future purchasing. In addition, when a given vendor has in more than one instance shipped merchandise of this nature, he may be eliminated as a possible vendor to institutions.

"4. Each institution will take the necessary steps to insure that items purchased are checked immediately upon receipt to determine if they are satisfactory. In the event that such items do not meet the purchase order specifications, these are to be returned collect to the vendor concerned.

"5. Institutions will deal directly with vendors relative to delivery. Unsatisfactory delivery schedules are likewise grounds for eliminating vendors from the bidding list for specific institutions.

"6. In order to establish standards and specifications for items in common use, Mr. (Don) Frost (field representative) is directed to establish committees consisting of the business managers of the institutions concerned with a common item who will provide a list of named items that are satisfactory in terms of cost and durability. The Purchasing Agent will be requested to secure bids only on items which have been thus approved. This will be a continuous process and will be initiated from the department, or may be initiated, also, by any institution at their request.

Prison Industries

"7. Prison Industries exists to serve the departments and agencies of Nebraska State Government. Institutions will procure all the items possible from Prison Industries. Prison Industries is responsible for producing an acceptable product. Institutions will deal directly with Prison Industries on any complaints, and the necessary adjustments will be made by that organization.

"8. Institutions will deal directly with Prison Industries in the procurement of all supplies except those on established periodical requisitions."

Bethany Fire Station Bids To City Feb. 8

Construction bids on the proposed new $75,000 city fire station at 901 No. Cotner Blvd. will be received February 8 at City Hall.

Also authorized by the City Council are January 31 bids on street lighting equipment to relight So. 27th from O to Van Dorn.

Mercury-vapor street lights will be installed along the 2-mile project.

Public Works Director D. L. Erickson said the materials, on which bids will be taken, were estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

Youth Released In Accidental Shooting

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas late Tuesday released 14-year-old Maurice Sherffius, who was being questioned in connection with a shooting incident Sunday.

Douglas ruled that the shooting of Arthur Bley, 14, of 2320 So. 58th, was accidental.

The youth, reported in good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital, was wounded while target shooting with Sherffius near 60th and Van Dorn.

Valentine Man Part Owner Of Champion Bull

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Denver — A Nebraska rancher became part owner of the grand champion Hereford bull that sold at the National Western Stock Show Tuesday for $32,000.

The top seller, Real Anx. Husker 93, was sold by Cumming Hereford, Amherst, Colo., to Wilbur Drybread of Valentine and Thorp Hereford Ranch of Britton, S.D.

Nebraska wins in the National Western Rodeo and Horse Show included a first place to Layman Auction Co. of Lincoln on a quarter horse named Speedster in cutting horse competition.

Another win was made by Estelle Peterson of Winnebago who topped the fine harness class with a horse named Charivils Fancy Nylon.

Safecracker Sets Fire

Indianapolis, Ind. (UPI) — A fire apparently touched off by a safecracker's acetylene torch swept a block-long paint factory. An official of Lilly Paint Products Inc., estimated the loss at $300,000.

Ex-Zion Pastor, Rev. J. Flemmer, Dies In Colorado

Brush, Colo. — The Rev. J. P. Flemmer, 69, pastor of Immanuel Congregational Church, died Monday.

Rev. Flemmer served as pastor of Zion Congregational Church in Lincoln for 9 years before returning to Brush. He had been pastor of Immanuel Congregational Church in Brush for 7 years before coming to Lincoln in 1952.

Born in Odessa, Russia, he came to America when he was 8. He has been a minister for 40 years, serving most of his life in Colorado.

The Rev. Mr. Flemmer was elected president of the Nebraska German Congregational Conference in 1956.

Funeral services will be in Brush at 11 a.m. Friday with burial at Ft. Collins, Colo.

He is survived by his wife, Marie of Brush; a daughter, Mrs. Florence Buckmaster of Akron, Colo.; son, Lowell of Denver; 5 grandchildren; 3 brothers, and two sisters.

County Register Of Deeds Files For Re-Election

Lancaster County Register of Deeds Kenneth L. Ferguson filed Tuesday for re-election.

The 37-year-old Republican was elected in 1958 after filling the unexpired term of the late J. G. Vaughn, former register of deeds.

Ferguson served as deputy register of deeds from 1951 until 1958, and worked in the office in 1946 and 1947.

House To Tackle Postal Rates First

Washington (AP) — The House will tackle President Kennedy's request for an increase in postal rates as its first order of business.

This word came from Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., Tuesday, after a White House meeting of Democratic Congressional leaders with the President.

McCormack also said the House administration leaders have decided to seek passage of a federal aid for colleges bill before taking up separate legislation dealing with public school construction and teacher salaries.

Not As Strong

"From the tactical angle, opposition to the higher education bill is not as strong as to the general education bill," he said, and from that standpoint he said it would be logical to move ahead first with the higher education proposal.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana announced debate is scheduled to start Jan. 29 or 30 on a college education bill. The Senate measure would authorize a $2.76-billion program including loan funds for college classroom construction, scholarships, and grants to help build community junior colleges.

Kennedy's aid to education program ran into a religious controversy last year and both the public school and college aid proposals were blocked in the House Rules Committee.

Many Roman Catholic leaders insisted the general education bill should include aid for parochial schools but the President expressed the view that this might be unconstitutional.

McCormack, who like the President is a Catholic, said the decision to separate the college bill from the school aid measure "does not mean there will not be a determined effort to get the general school bill out of committee."

McCormack predicted the House will start work next week on the controversial postal rate bill, which would include a one-cent increase in the 4-cent charge for first class letters.

Other bills which McCormack said are ticketed for early consideration include the President's request for creation of a new cabinet department of urban affairs, and legislation to retrain jobless workers and provide employment opportunities for young people.

Death Of Papers Alarms Salinger

Washington (AP)—Pierre Salinger Tuesday described as alarming "the gradual consolidation and death of some of our great daily newspapers."

The White House press secretary addressed the Advertising Club of Metropolitan Washington on "Communications—1962." The luncheon session was one of the events marking Printing Week, which this year commemorates a past master of communications, Benjamin Franklin, a printer.

PIERRE SALINGER

Stressing what he called the need for expression of many points of view in a community, Salinger said he realizes the economic problems of newspaper publishing.

But he said some cities which once had 4 or 5 newspapers have seen the number shrink to two and, in some cases, "gradually whittled down to one." He said he "really deplored" this.

In the field of international communications, Salinger expressed the opinion that "the single most important step" in 1961 was President Kennedy's interview with Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia and son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Latest word received by the White House, Salinger said, is that people in Russia are still carrying dog-eared copies of this in their pockets, reading and re-reading it.

"It was a beautiful exposition of America's position in the cold war," Salinger said, and has had great impact in Russia and other nations.

Madison Officials Get Wage Hikes

Madison (UPI) — Wage hikes for Madison County officials, ranging from $1,200 to $1,900 per year, were approved by county commissioners.

All county officials, except the commissioners and county judge, received a salary increase to at least $5,400 per year, the floor set for class 5 counties by the 1961 legislature.

Receiving the largest boost in pay was Mrs. Wilma French, register of deeds. The salary for that position raised from $3,700 to $5,600.
